U. S. DEMANDS DAMAGES OF YUGOSLAVIA

Yugoslavia Hits Decision On Trieste

ASSERTS AGGRESSIVE FASCISM STILL ALIVE

Criticizes As "Absurd" Proposed Boundary Which Ministers Approved

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP) — Yugoslavia today ripped into the four-power decision to internationalize Trieste, urged, that the disputed port be awarded to her, and bitterly attacked the Italian arguments in the dispute as evidence that "the aggressive spirit of fascism was still alive."

The attack was launched in the Italian Political and Territorial Commission, one of six peace conference commissions which convened today on problems of the peace.

The Military Commission approved unanimously four-power recommendations that the Italian Army, Navy and Airforce be limited to a total of 297,500 men—only a fraction of wartime strength.

The Balkan Economic Commission adopted unanimously a Polish amendment which would oblige Romania to restore "all the legal rights and interests in Romania of the United Nations and their Nationals as they existed" on Sept. 1, 1939, the date Hitler sent troops into Poland, instead of the day Russia entered the war as the foreign ministers had drafted the paragraph.

Criticized Proposed Boundary

In the Romanian Political and Territorial Commission, Britain made a move to put the question of Jewish minorities on the agenda by submitting a representation recently made by a number of Jewish organizations headed by the World Jewish Congress. It called for the writing of special guarantees of rights for Jews into all treaties with former satellites. It was presented by British Foreign Office Attache Gladwyn Jebb, but there was neither action nor discussion.

Yugoslavia's attack on the four-power decision to internationalize Trieste was made by Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs Dr. Ales Bebler.

He criticized as "absurd and impractical" the French - proposed boundary which the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Council adopted in July to divide disputed Venezia Giulia in carrying out internationalization of Trieste.

Bitterly, Bebler lashed back at the arguments of Ivanhoe Bonomi, head of the Italian Assembly's foreign affairs office. Bonomi yesterday asked the commission to "re-examine" the Foreign Ministers' decision, charging the French line violated ethnic principles, and asserting that a free city of Trieste held the seeds of endangering world peace again.

Here was a man, Bebler cried, whose past did not permit him to accept any Pacific and Democratic ideas.

Attitude Termed Ruthless

Bonomi's attitude, Bebler said, was "ruthless and heartless."

The Yugoslav delegate urged the peace conference to establish a boundary which would leave on either side of the line only a minimum of each minority.

Instead of attempting to take care of ethnic minorities, the Foreign Ministers arrived at a principle of "ethnic equilibrium," Bebler charged, sacrificing "hundreds of thousands of Slovenes.'

"Since there exist 7,500,000 Italians in America, why not give Italy colonies in the new world for the sake of the ethnic equilibrium principle?" he asked.

Bebler did not go into the question of Trieste specifically although

Democrats Will Nominate Mead To Oppose Dewey

American Labor Nominates Mead For Governor, Lehman For Senate

[By The Associated Press]

Political thundering that may echo in the 1948 presidential campaigning sounded in New York's political conventions yesterday (Tuesday) with Democrats testing their verbal weapons on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, even as Republicans made ready to nominate him for another term.

The two major parties, convening simultaneously in separate localities, will name their candidates today.

Democrats, in Albany, were aligned behind Senator James M. Mead, chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, as the man to cross swords with Dewey for the governorship.

The American Labor Party, in a third convention in New York City, jumped the gun on the Democrats last night by nominating Mead for Governor and Herbert H. Lehman for United States Senator to succeed Mead. It was the first time since it was organized in 1936 that the ALP had named its candidates ahead of the state Democrats.

The Democrats also are expected to put Lehman forward as their candidate for senator.

Other Developments

New York featured the political big show, but there were also these developments on other fronts:

South Carolina—J. Strom Thurmond of Edgefield appeared victor over Dr. James C. McLeod of Florence for governor in yesterday's Democratic primary, tantamount to election. With 1,369 of 1,544 precincts reported, Thurmond had 121,309 votes to 93,125 for McLeod.

Nevada—First, incomplete returns late last night showed a neck-and-neck race between Rep. Berkeley L. Bunker and Senator E. P. Corville for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Bunker, seeking to unseat Corville, led by a slight margin in the early returns. These returns also showed a stiff race between George Malone, Reno engineer, and former Judge George Marshall of Las Vegas, in the Republican senatorial nominating contest.

Vermont — Republicans convened to draft a platform. Former Senator John A. Danaher of Connecticut told them the party's chief task is to "purge our government of officials who owe their allegiance to some foreign power."

Wisconsin—Nominees for state offices and Assembly and Senate seats of Wisconsin's three political parties adopted platforms upon which they will campaign for election this fall

Hindu-Moslem Riots Spread Over Bombay

Troops Rushed To City As Fighting Appears More Organized

BOMBAY, Wednesday, Sept. 4. (AP) Bloody Hindu-Moslem rioting, officially represented to be on a "more organized" scale than before, fanned out into new areas of Bombay last night and swelled the casualty list since Sunday to 109 dead and 393 injured.

A communique issued shortly after midnight said new outbreaks had occurred in Northern Bombay, where a police party was attacked and attempts were made to burn buildings. However, the remainder of Bombay was comparatively quiet early this morning.

In all, 38 persons were killed and 136 injured Tuesday, the communique added.

Additional troops were rushed to the city.

Pitched Battles Rage

Pitched battles between mobs of Hindus and Moslems were finally broken up by police fire. Belligerents then carried on sporadic hit-and-run attacks in the darkness.

I. I. Chundrigar, president of the Bombay Provincial Moslem League, appealed to Moslems to remove black flags which they have been flying as a sign of protest against the New Interim Indian Government, in which the Moslem League declined to participate.

The flying of the flags coincided with the start of the disorders, and has been an irritant ever since.

A communique issued shortly before midnight said that rioting, previously mostly sporadic stabbings, stonings and other assaults, had "deteriorated into more organized clashes."

The darkness was cut by gunshots.

Police opened fire at rooftop stone strewers who hurled a large stone at Police Commissioner C. J. Wilson while he was touring the curfew area.

Police also fired on a mob which attacked Wilson and his deputy, P. B. Wolkins, from the street. The rioters, who hurled stones and bottles, finally were dispersed.

The communique, issued shortly before midnight, said "repeated attempts" were made to set fire to places of worship of both Hindus and Moslems in the northern industrial section.

Mobs also tossed flaming oil-soaked rags onto rooftops of other buildings in that general area.

Atmosphere Is Tense

"Efforts are still being made to prevent further clashes," the communique said. "The atmosphere is decidedly tense."

Two trucks filled with rioters sped through the streets in one section, which previously had been untouched by riots, and hurled bottles and stones at pedestrians. Some casualties were caused.

Some 600 persons were rounded up by police in efforts to quell the fighting, touched off by the inauguration of India's New Interim Government in which the Moslem League has refused to be represented.

In New Delhi, where the New Interim Government under Congress Party President Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru has taken office, the Newspaper Dawn, voice of the Moslem League, said "India finds itself turned into a prison house" for Moslems

"The prison keepers must be overcome," the newspaper said. "The art of gentle persuasion having failed, the hard road of resistance alone remains."

Draft May Fail To Fill Army Need

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (AP)—The military draft was back in operation again today after a two-months summer vacation but Selective Service officials were wrinkling browns over a possible 30,000-man shortage by March 31.

The possible shortage is reflected in these estimates:

The army has said it may have to rely on Selective Service to furnish 185,000 men between now and expiration of the draft act, March 31, 1947.

Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey has estimated roughly there is a pool of only about 155,000 men 19 to 29 years old, inclusive, to meet this possible demand.

Officials have said they expect no trouble meeting quotas during September and October. The September quota has been announced as 25,000. But from October on prospects are considered not too bright.

Reducing the potential pool of eligible men most drastically was Congress's stipulation that 18-year olds shall be exempt. The exemption of fathers and of full-time, essential and irreplaceable agricultural workers also have reduced the draft potential.

These other groups also are exempt, but their numbers are comparatively small; experienced construction workers (there were few apprentices during the war and many experienced workers are fathers), students in veterinarian, medical, dental and osteopathy schools, graduate students of the physical sciences and college professors.

FEAR POWER STRIKE—Farkas W. Rettman and his wife, who is expecting a child, are shown in Pittsburgh where a power strike is threatened. Rettman has warned union and company officials criminal proceedings will be filed if a power strike occurs and endangers the life of Mrs. Rettman or the child.

AFL Seamen Balk At Wage Board's Pay Decision

John Hawk, Vice-President Says 100,000 Will Begin Strike Thursday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—A shipping strike threatened tonight on all U. S. coasts as AFL seamen balked at a Wage Stabilization Board decision denying pay increases in excess of the CIO's.

Vice President John Hawk of the AFL Seafarers International Union told a news conference in New York that 94,000 to 100,000 AFL seamen would begin a strike Thursday on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts.

Efforts were being made here, meantime, to persuade the wage board to reconsider its decision of August 23. That ruling limited the AFL pay increases for able-bodied seamen to the $17.50 a month won by Joseph Curran's CIO-National Maritime Union last June 15.

A CIO strike was averted by that and other concessions to CIO and independent maritime unions of the Committee for Maritime Unity.

After the June 15 crisis ended, the Sailors' Union of the Pacific and the Seafarers International Union, both part of the newly formed AFL Maritime Trades Department, negotiated contracts with their employers on the three coasts calling for pay increases for able-bodied seamen of $22.50 and $27.50 a month, respectively.

The war shipping administration controlling the lion's share of the nation's shipping, approved the contracts negotiated by Hawk and Harry Lundeberg, president of the Sailor's Union of the Pacific. Lundeberg also heads the SIU.

But the stabilization board in effect said that the extra $5.00 and $10.00 for AFL seamen would throw sea pay out of kilter and approve only $17.50 a month increase.

Thus far the board has declined to reconsider, but it held another meeting today to discuss the combined pleas of the AFL unions and employers for a review.

J. B. Bryan, president of the Pacific American Shipowners Association, told a reporter he was trying to persuade the industry members of the board to reconsider. Bryan said they had "voted against us,

Mrs. Oliva Dionne Gives Birth To 14th Child

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 3 (AP)—A baby boy was born tonight to Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the famous quintuplets. He is her 14th child.

The quintuplets, now 12 years of age, were immensely excited at the news. The girls spent most of the evening discussing names for their new brother.

Doctors said the baby was "a beautiful boy" and weighed about eight pounds.

Showdown Seen In Mead-King Row Over Pipeline

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — The row between Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate War Investigating Committee and Adm. Ernest J. King over the $133,000,000 canol pipeline project headed today for a showdown in a public hearing.

Mead delivered a fresh criticism of King's attitude and announced he will ask his committee to invite the wartime chief of naval operations "to appear in a public hearing at the earliest possible date."

Mead's statement declared that President Truman, when he headed the committee, wanted to look into the pipeline project and that King, "acting for the joint chiefs of staff, refused Senator Truman's request to have the files examined on the ground that the 'national security might be endangered.' "

"This decision was made," Mead continued, "in spite of the fact that the committee and its staff, therefore and afterwards, were allowed by the war and navy departments to examine the most secret files and documents during its investigations."

Mead declared that the committee's annual report Saturday merely reiterated the position it took under Mr. Truman's chairmanship. The report termed the Canadian pipeline project "a wanton waste of money, power and materials."

The report accused King of using "the high office of the joint chiefs of staff and the claim of military secrecy" to block an investigation. King called this "a wilful distortion of the facts" and said he acted "not for myself but for the joint chiefs of staff as a group."

The joint chiefs of staff are the head of the army, navy and army air forces.

Securify Council To Hear Charges Against Greece

United States And Great Britain Disagree On Question Of Procedure

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Sept. 3, (AP) — The United Nations Security council by a bare majority of seven votes agreed tonight to hear Soviet Ukrainian charges against the Greek government. The United States and Great Britain disagreed on the issue.

After Herschel V. Johnson, United States delegate, lined up beside Soviet Russia in support of laying the Ukrainian cards on the table there was little doubt about the issue. The vote, which came after four hours of debate, was:

To hear the case: The United States, France, Egypt, Mexico, Poland, Russia and China.

Against hearing it in its present form: Great Britain and the Netherlands.

Abstaining: Australia and Brazil.

Postponement Sought

The council adjourned immediately after the ballot until 3:45 p. m., E.D.T., tomorrow, with a Greek request for a 10-day postponement still to be considered.

The issue was decided early tonight when Dr. C. L. Hsia, Chinese delegate, said he would vote to hear the case on the same basis as that advanced by the United States earlier. Seven votes were needed to approve the Ukrainian demand.

The United States had agreed to

McKeldin Opens Campaign Office

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3 (AP)—State headquarters for Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin's campaign for governor on the Republican ticket were opened today in the Lord Baltimore hotel.

State Democratic campaign headquarters will open September 10 in the Hotel Emerson.

In charge of McKeldin's office is Lt. Leland Rockwell, recently appointed to be the mayor's campaign manager.

It was indicated the office would be expanded within the next several days to accommodate also the campaign staff of D. John Markey, Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

Chairman Robert B. Ennis of the Democratic State Central Committee said that unless there were a contrary decision at a forthcoming conference among the party's nominees for state-wide office, all major Democratic candidates would share the central headquarters.

They are William Preston Lane, Jr., for governor; Herbert R. O'Conor, for the United States Senate; James L. Lacy, for comptroller, Hall Hammond, for attorney-general and Dudley G. Roe, Hugh H. Meade, Thomas D'Alesandro, George Fallon, Lansdale G. Sasscer and Arch McDonald, contenders for the United States House of Representatives.

The Democrats have reserved 17 rooms at the Emerson.

New Note Is Sent To U.S. By Belgrade

Yugoslavia Charges American Planes Continue Unauthorized Flights

BELRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 3 (AP)—Yugoslavia, in a sharp new note to the United States published here today, charged that American planes were continuing unauthorized flights over the country and declared that these "deliberate and brutal infringements of Yugoslav territory can no longer be tolerated."

Requesting the United States to take urgent measures to preven further infringements, the note charged that since Aug. 19, when five Americans were shot down and killed by Yugoslav fighters, 11 United States bombers, 14 pursuit planes and seven transports had flown over Yugoslav territory.

Infringements Charged

"The government of Yugoslavia considers deliberate and brutal infringments of Yugoslavia's territory on the part of military planes can no longer be tolerated, and requests that necessary measures be urgently undertaken by the United States States Government in order to prevent this in the future because this is also detrimental to good relations between America and Yugoslavia and brings about undesired incidents," the note declared.

On Aug. 25, the Yugoslav Ministry of information issued a statement charging British and American aircraft continued to violate Yugoslav sovereignty even after the first plane incident—Aug. 9 in which an American transport was forced down under machinegun fire.

This statement, following by six days the shooting down of the second plane, charged that 110 violations were made between Aug. 10 and Aug. 20. The new note published today charged violations between Aug. 23 and 27.

(In Vienna, the American Flight Control at Tulln, Airbase said it had no information on a Aris radio report, quoting a "Belgrade announcement" last Friday, that a plane on the Vienna-Udine run had been forced to land near Ljubljana, Yugoslavia. Flight Control said that since the previous incidents on that route, very few flights had been made. Those which were made were kept under close watch, it added, and no forced landing had been reported.)

Deny Responsibility

A government statement, published on the front page of all Belgrade newspapers today, said the Yugoslav Charge D'Affaires in Washington delivered the new note to the United States State Department Aug. 30. The text of the note also was published.

The note claimed that no "necessary satisfactory reply" had been given to either of two earlier Yugoslav notes—one Aug. 10, the other Aug. 19—protesting unauthorized American flights and demanding that the United States Government take measures to prevent them.

The latest note declared that "however much the death of the victims is regrettable owing to the tragic end of a plane which occurred Aug. 19 this year, the government of Yugoslavia cannot bear any responsibility for this because on its part it has done all in order to avoid such cases which occurred and which can very easily ocur on a frontier where our army, as in every independent country, has a task to guard the inviolability of its territory and sovereignity of its country."

NAM Officials Will Discuss Decontrols

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3 (AP)—The OPA decontrol policy will be discussed here Sept. 10 by Maryland businessmen at a meeting sponsored jointly by the National Association of Manufacturers and the Baltimore Association of Commerce.

Hooper S. Miles, president of the Baltimore group, said speakers will be Ira Mosher, chairman of the board, and Walter V. Weisenburger, executive vice president of the NAM.

Says Bluntly Tito's Reports Exaggerated

WHEREABOUTS OF U. S. PLANES ARE CHECKED

Willing To Write Off Dispute Over Recent Forced Crashes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — The United States told Yugoslavia in effect tonight that it is willing to write off the dispute over the forced crashes of two American planes if the Tito government, which has apologized, will pay damages for the loss of life and property.

At the same time, this government made it clear in blunt language that it believes Marshal Tito's reports of unauthorized flights of American planes over Yugoslavia are fantastically exaggerated.

The United States also repeated its previous contention that the first of the two unarmed army transport planes forced to crash by attacking Yugoslav fighters was over Yugoslav territory only because the pilot got off course in bad weather.

Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton, in charge at the State Department in the absence of Secretary Byrnes and Undersecretary Dean Acheson, handed a bulky, 2,100-word statement of the American views to Dr. Sergije Makiedo, charge d'affaires of the Yugoslav embassy, shortly after 6 p. m. (EST).

Exhaustive Investigation Made

Dr. Makiedo, also the recipient of the American ultimatum on the planes matter 13 days ago, was with Clayton less than 10 minutes and would not comment when he left.

Clayton's note recited two notes received from Tito within the last five days and answered in detail Tito's charges of unauthorized American flights.

An exhaustive investigation by the government included checkups on the whereabouts of every American military plane in Europe between July 16 and August 29.

Where Yugoslavia claimed that 172 such flights had been made over its territory by American planes between July 16 and August 8, Clayton declared that only 10 American military aircraft made flights during that period anywhere near Yugoslav territory.

From August 10 to August 20, Clayton said American planes flew only 30 flights in areas close to Yugoslav territory, compared with 39 claimed by Tito to have flown over his country.

Tito reported 36 unauthorized American flights between August 23 and 29. Clayton said only four armed B-17's flew near Yugoslavia in that period and that none violated Yugoslav territory.

Tito also had told Ambassador Richard C. Patterson in Belgrade last Saturday that there were 26 territory violations by American planes on August 28 and 29. Clayton said there were only two flights near Yugoslavia and that none crossed that country's frontier.

After answering each of these Yugoslav claims with figures, dates and the types of planes involved, Clayton declared he was "forced to the conclusion" that the violations alleged by Tito "must have been made by planes other than American planes."

He did not amplify that statement.

Clayton emphatically declared that no American planes had flown over Yugoslavia intentionally, without advance approval, "unless forced to do so in an emergency."

"I presume that the government of Yugoslavia recognizes that in case a plane and its occupants are jeopardized, the aircraft may change

State Medical School Clinics May Go On Full-Time Basis

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 3, (AP) — A plan to put the clinical departments of the University of Maryland Medical School in Baltimore on a full-time basis was received today by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university.

The plan was submitted to Dr. Byrd by a medical school faculty committee headed by Dr. John C. Krantz.

Under the system, members of the faculty would receive salaries and be required to abandon all private practice. When a full-time physician gave service, the fee paid by the patient would go to the medical school.

The plan, as proposed by the committee, probably would require eight years for its full realization at the cost of several hundred thousand dollars a year, the report said.

However, Dr. Byrd said he believed the project could be completed in much less time and at much less cost. He did not say exactly how much he thought it would cost, and did not disclose complete details of the proposed new medical faculty organization.

In regard to improvements at the medical school, however, the University of Maryland president made these suggestions:

1. Provide full-time heads and workers in the clinical departments.
2. Increase salaries.
3. Construct a new wing to the University Hospital, adding 150 beds to make it a 600-bed institution.
4. Operate extension courses in the form of graduate training for practicing physicians.
5. Reduce cost of medical education. It now costs Marylanders about $525 a year to study medicine and should cost $300, Dr. Byrd said.
6. Establish closer relations with other hospitals for all purposes.
7. Develop research in the clinical departments and expand research in pre-clinical departments.

No decision on changes or improvements will be made at the medical school until the University Board of Regents makes a study of present proposals. The board is expected to decide in the next two months just what action it will take.

Trial Of Yugoslavs Who Shot Down Americans Urged By VFW

BOSTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — The veterans of Foreign Wars convention warmed today to exhortations from the nation's top military figures for a policy of "peace through strength" and took preliminary steps to consider a resolution demanding Yugoslavs responsible for shooting American airmen be brought to trial.

The resolution was drafted for later convention action by its resolution committee as General Dwight D. Eisenhower told cheering delegates that the United States must struggle patiently—even though at times patience wears thin"—for world peace through the mechanism of the United Nations.

The army chief of staff denounced an accusation of Donald M. Nelson, former War Productions Board Chairman, that the military was attempting to get control of the country's economy and declared "the army wants no domination over anything but its own affairs."

Delegates to the 47th National Encampment of the VFW, representing two million former overseas soldiers, sailors and airmen, focused their attention on the troubled international situation, but took cognizance also of two domestic issues—the Ku Klux Klan and the housing shortage.

A resolution—drafted by the Georgia delegation and approved unanimously by the powerful Resolutions Committee — compared the Klan to the Nazi S. S. Corps and Gestapo and denounced the organization as a potential "treasonous" group.

"The S. S. Corps and the Gestapo," the resolution said, "were far less formidable or numerous in their early days than is the present evolution of the revived Ku Klux Klan."

With growing concern over housing shortage voiced openly among delegates, Wilson Wyatt, Federal Housing Administrator, told them that despite criticism that the government program was moving ahead faster than it ever had before. He said that 907,100 dwellings were started in the first seven months of this year—more than half the goal of 1,200,000 starts for this year.

Work stoppages had impeded the program, he said, and then shouted "the government did not promise to end the housing shortage in six months."

Urges Disputed Port Be Given Her; Attacks Italian Argument

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP) — Yugoslavia today ripped into the four-power decision to internationalize Trieste, urged that the disputed port be awarded to her, and bitterly attacked the Italian arguments in the dispute as evidence that "the aggressive spirit of fascism was still alive."

The attack was launched in the Italian Political and Territorial Commission, one of six peace conference commissions which convened today on problems of the peace.

Hindu-Moslem Riots Spread Over Bombay

Troops Rushed To City As Fighting Appears More Organized

BOMBAY, Wednesday, Sept. 4. (AP) Bloody Hindu-Moslem rioting, officially represented to be on a "more organized" scale than before, fanned out into new areas of Bombay last night and swelled the casualty list since Sunday to 109 dead and 393 injured.

A communique issued shortly after midnight said new outbreaks had occurred in Northern Bombay, where a police party was attacked and attempts were made to burn buildings. However, the remainder of Bombay was comparatively quiet early this morning.

In all, 38 persons were killed and 136 injured Tuesday, the communique added.

Additional troops were rushed to the city.

Pitched Battles Rage

Pitched battles between mobs of Hindus and Moslems were finally broken up by police fire. Belligerents then carried on sporadic hit-and-run attacks in the darkness.

I. I. Chundrigar, president of the Bombay Provincial Moslem League, appealed to Moslems to remove black flags which they have been flying as a sign of protest against the New Interim Indian Government, in which the Moslem League declined to participate.

The flying of the flags coincided with the start of the disorders, and has been an irritant ever since.

A communique issued shortly before midnight said that rioting, previously mostly sporadic stabbings, stonings and other assaults, had "deteriorated into more organized clashes."

The darkness was cut by gunshots.

Police opened fire at rooftop stone strewers who hurled a large stone at Police Commissioner C. J. Wilson while he was touring the curfew area.

Police also fired on a mob which attacked Wilson and his deputy, P. B. Wolkins, from the street. The rioters, who hurled stones and bottles, finally were dispersed.

The communique, issued shortly before midnight, said "repeated attempts" were made to set fire to places of worship of both Hindus and Moslems in the northern industrial section.

Mobs also tossed flaming oil-soaked rags onto rooftops of other buildings in that general area.

Atmosphere Is Tense

"Efforts are still being made to prevent further clashes," the communique said. "The atmosphere is decidedly tense."

Two trucks filled with rioters sped through the streets in one section, which previously had been untouched by riots, and hurled bottles and stones at pedestrians. Some casualties were caused.

Some 600 persons were rounded up by police in efforts to quell the fighting, touched off by the inauguration of India's New Interim Government in which the Moslem League has refused to be represented.

In New Delhi, where the New Interim Government under Congress Party President Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru has taken office, the Newspaper Dawn, voice of the Moslem League, said "India finds itself turned into a prison house" for Moslems.

"The prison keepers must be overcome," the newspaper said. "The art of gentle persuasion having failed, the hard road of resistance alone remains."

Draft May Fail To Fill Army Need

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. (AP)—The military draft was back in operation again today after a two-months summer vacation but Selective Service officials were wrinkling browns over a possible 30,000-man shortage by March 31.

The possible shortage is reflected in these estimates:

The army has said it may have to rely on Selective Service to furnish 185,000 men between now and exporation of the draft act, March 31, 1947.

Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey has estimated roughly there is a pool of only about 155,000 men 19 to 29 years old, inclusive, to meet this possible demand.

Officials have said they expect no trouble meeting quotas during September and October. The September quota has been announced as 25,000. But from October on prospects are considered not too bright.

Reducing the potential pool of eligible men most drastically was Congress's stipulation that 18-year olds shall be exempt. The exemption of fathers and of full-time, essential and irreplaceable agricultural workers also have reduced the draft potential.

These other groups also are exempt, but their numbers are comparatively small; experienced construction workers (there were few apprentices during the war and many experienced workers are fathers), students in veterinarian, medical, dental and osteopathy schools, graduate students of the physical sciences and college professors.

FEAR POWER STRIKE—Farkas W. Rettman and his wife, who is expecting a child, are shown in Pittsburgh where a power strike is threatened. Rettman has warned union and company officials criminal proceedings will be filed if a power strike occurs and endangers the life of Mrs. Rettman or the child.

AFL Seamen Balk At Wage Board's Pay Decision

John Hawk, Vice-President Says 100,000 Will Begin Strike Thursday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—A shipping strike threatened tonight on all U. S. coasts as AFL seamen balked at a Wage Stabilization Board decision denying pay increases in excess of the CIO's.

Vice President John Hawk of the AFL Seafarers International Union told a news conference in New York that 94,000 to 100,000 AFL seamen would begin a strike Thursday on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts.

Efforts were being made here, meantime, to persuade the wage board to reconsider its decision of August 23. That ruling limited the AFL pay increases for able-bodied seamen to the $17.50 a month won by Joseph Curran's CIO-National Maritime Union last June 15.

A CIO strike was averted by that and other concessions to CIO and independent maritime unions of the Committee for Maritime Unity.

After the June 15 crisis ended, the Sailors' Union of the Pacific and the Seafarers International Union, both part of the newly formed AFL Maritime Trades Department, negotiated contracts with their employers on the three coasts calling for pay increases for able-bodied seamen of $22.50 and $27.50 a month, respectively.

The war shipping administration controlling the lion's share of the nation's shipping, approved the contracts negotiated by Hawk and Harry Lundeberg, president of the Sailor's Union of the Pacific. Lundeberg also heads the SIU.

But the stabilization board in effect said that the extra $5.00 and $10.00 for AFL seamen would throw sea pay out of kilter and approve only $17.50 a month increase.

Thus far the board has declined to reconsider, but it held another meeting today to discuss the combined pleas of the AFL unions and employers for a review.

J. B. Bryan, president of the Pacific American Shipowners Association, told a reporter he was trying to persuade the industry members of the board to reconsider. Bryan said they had "voted against us,

Mrs. Oliva Dionne Gives Birth To 14th Child

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 3 (AP)—A baby boy was born tonight to Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the famous quintuplets. He is her 14th child.

The quintuplets, now 12 years of age, were immensely excited at the news. The girls spent most of the evening discussing names for their new brother.

Doctors said the baby was "a beautiful boy" and weighed about eight pounds.

Showdown Seen In Mead-King Row Over Pipeline

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — The row between Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate War Investigating Committee and Adm. Ernest J. King over the $133,000,000 canol pipeline project headed today for a showdown in a public hearing.

Mead delivered a fresh criticism of King's attitude and announced he will ask his committee to invite the wartime chief of naval operations "to appear in a public hearing at the earliest possible date."

Mead's statement declared that President Truman, when he headed the committee, wanted to look into the pipeline project and that King, "acting for the joint chiefs of staff, refused Senator Truman's request to have the files examined on the ground that the 'national security might be endangered.' "

"This decision was made," Mead continued, "in spite of the fact that the committee and its staff, therefore and afterwards, were allowed by the war and navy departments to examine the most secret files and documents during its investigations."

Mead declared that the committee's annual report Saturday merely reiterated the position it took under Mr. Truman's chairmanship. The report termed the Canadian pipeline project "a wanton waste of money, power and materials."

The report accused King of using "the high office of the joint chiefs of staff and the claim of military secrecy" to block an investigation. King called this "a wilful distortion of the facts" and said he acted "not for myself but for the joint chiefs of staff as a group."

The joint chiefs of staff are the head of the army, navy and army air forces.

Security Council To Hear Charges Against Greece

United States And Great Britain Disagree On Question Of Procedure

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Sept. 3, (AP) — The United Nations Security council by a bare majority of seven votes agreed tonight to hear Soviet Ukrainian charges against the Greek government. The United States and Great Britain disagreed on the issue.

After Herschel V. Johnson, United States delegate, lined up beside Soviet Russia in support of laying the Ukrainian cards on the table there was little doubt about the issue. The vote, which came after four hours of debate, was:

To hear the case: The United States, France, Egypt, Mexico, Poland, Russia and China.

Against hearing it in its present form: Great Britain and the Netherlands.

Abstaining: Australia and Brazil.

Postponement Sought

The council adjourned immediately after the ballot until 3:45 p. m., E.D.T., tomorrow, with a Greek request for a 10-day postponement still to be considered.

The issue was decided early tonight when Dr. C. L. Hsia, Chinese delegate, said he would vote to hear the case on the same basis as that advanced by the United States earlier. Seven votes were needed to approve the Ukrainian demand.

The United States had agreed to

McKeldin Opens Campaign Office

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3 (AP)—State headquarters for Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin's campaign for governor on the Republican ticket were opened today in the Lord Baltimore hotel.

State Democratic campaign headquarters will open September 10 in the Hotel Emerson.

In charge of McKeldin's office is Lt. Leland Rockwell, recently appointed to be the mayor's campaign manager.

It was indicated the office would be expanded within the next several days to accommodate also the campaign staff of D. John Markey, Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

Chairman Robert B. Ennis of the Democratic State Central Committee said that unless there were a contrary decision at a forthcoming conference among the party's nominees for state-wide office, all major Democratic candidates would share the central headquarters.

They are William Preston Lane, Jr., for governor; Herbert R. O'Conor, for the United States Senate; James L. Lacy, for comptroller, Hall Hammond, for attorney-general and Dudley G. Roe, Hugh H. Meade, Thomas D'Alesandro, George Fallon, Lansdale G. Sasscer and Arch McDonald, contenders for the United States House of Representatives.

The Democrats have reserved 17 rooms at the Emerson.

Yugoslavia Charges American Planes Continue Unauthorized Flights

BELRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 3 (AP) —Yugoslavia, in a sharp new note to the United States published here today, charged that American planes were continuing unauthorized flights over the country and declared that these "deliberate and brutal infringements of Yugoslav territory can no longer be tolerated."

Requesting the United States to take urgent measures to preven further infringements, the note charged that since Aug. 19, when five Americans were shot down and killed by Yugoslav fighters, 11 United States bombers, 14 pursuit planes and seven transports had flown over Yugoslav territory.

Infringements Charged

"The government of Yugoslavia considers deliberate and brutal infringments of Yugoslavia's territory on the part of military planes can no longer be tolerated, and requests that necessary measures be urgently undertaken by the United States States Government in order to prevent this in the future because this is also detrimental to good relations between America and Yugoslavia and brings about undesired incidents," the note declared.

On Aug. 25, the Yugoslav Ministry of information issued a statement charging British and American aircraft continued to violate Yugoslav sovereignty even after the first plane incident—Aug. 9 in which an American transport was forced down under machinegun fire.

This statement, following by six days the shooting down of the second plane, charged that 110 violations were made between Aug. 10 and Aug. 20. The new note published today charged violations between Aug. 23 and 27.

(In Vienna, the American Flight Control at Tulln, Airbase said it had no information on a Aris radio report, quoting a "Belgrade announcement" last Friday, that a plane on the Vienna-Udine run had been forced to land near Ljubljana, Yugoslavia. Flight Control said that since the previous incidents on that route, very few flights had been made. Those which were made were kept under close watch, it added, and no forced landing had been reported.)

Deny Responsibility

A government statement, published on the front page of all Belgrade newspapers today, said the Yugoslav Charge D'Affaires in Washington delivered the new note to the United States State Department Aug. 30. The text of the note also was published.

The note claimed that no "necessary satisfactory reply" had been given to either of two earlier Yugoslav notes—one Aug. 10, the other Aug. 19—protesting unauthorized American flights and demanding that the United States Government take measures to prevent them.

The latest note declared that "however much the death of the victims is regrettable owing to the tragic end of a plane which occurred Aug. 19 this year, the government of Yugoslavia cannot bear any responsibility for this because on its part it has done all in order to avoid such cases which occurred and which can very easily ocur on a frontier where our army, as in every independent country, has a task to guard the inviolability of its territory and sovereignity of its country."

NAM Officials Will Discuss Decontrols

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3 (AP)—The OPA decontrol policy will be discussed here Sept. 10 by Maryland businessmen at a meeting sponsored jointly by the National Association of Manufacturers and the Baltimore Association of Commerce.

Hooper S. Miles, president of the Baltimore group, said speakers will be Ira Mosher, chairman of the board, and Walter V. Weisenburger, executive vice president of the NAM.

Says Bluntly Tito's Reports Exaggerated

Willing To Write Off Dispute Over Recent Forced Crashes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — The United States told Yugoslavia in effect tonight that it is willing to write off the dispute over the forced crashes of two American planes if the Tito government, which has apologized, will pay damages for the loss of life and property.

At the same time, this government made it clear in blunt language that it believes Marshal Tito's reports of unauthorized flights of American planes over Yugoslavia are fantastically exaggerated.

The United States also repeated its previous contention that the first of the two unarmed army transport planes forced to crash by attacking Yugoslav fighters was over Yugoslav territory only because the pilot got off course in bad weather.

Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton, in charge at the State Department in the absence of Secretary Byrnes and Undersecretary Dean Acheson, handed a bulky, 2,100-word statement of the American views to Dr. Sergije Makiedo, charge d'affaires of the Yugoslav embassy, shortly after 6 p. m. (EST).

Exhaustive Investigation Made

Dr. Makiedo, also the recipient of the American ultimatum on the planes matter 13 days ago, was with Clayton less than 10 minutes and would not comment when he left.

Clayton's note recited two notes received from Tito within the last five days and answered in detail Tito's charges of unauthorized American flights.

An exhaustive investigation by the government included checkups on the whereabouts of every American military plane in Europe between July 16 and August 29.

Where Yugoslavia claimed that 172 such flights had been made over its territory by American planes between July 16 and August 8, Clayton declared that only 10 American military aircraft made flights during that period anywhere near Yugoslav territory.

From August 10 to August 20, Clayton said American planes flew only 30 flights in areas close to Yugoslav territory, compared with 39 claimed by Tito to have flown over his country.

Tito reported 36 unauthorized American flights between August 23 and 29. Clayton said only four armed B-17's flew near Yugoslavia in that period and that none violated Yugoslav territory.

Tito also had told Ambassador Richard C. Patterson in Belgrade last Saturday that there were 26 territory violations by American planes on August 28 and 29. Clayton said there were only two flights near Yugoslavia and that none crossed that country's frontier.

After answering each of these Yugoslav claims with figures, dates and the types of planes involved, Clayton declared he was "forced to the conclusion" that the violations alleged by Tito "must have been made by planes other than American planes."

He did not amplify that statement.

Clayton emphatically declared that no American planes had flown over Yugoslavia intentionally, without advance approval, "unless forced to do so in an emergency."

"I presume that the government of Yugoslavia recognizes that in case a plane and its occupants are jeopardized, the aircraft may change

State Medical School Clinics May Go On Full-Time Basis

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 3, (AP) — A plan to put the clinical departments of the University of Maryland Medical School in Baltimore on a full-time basis was received today by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university.

The plan was submitted to Dr. Byrd by a medical school faculty committee headed by Dr. John C. Krantz.

Under the system, members of the faculty would receive salaries and be required to abandon all private practice. When a full-time physician gave service, the fee paid by the patient would go to the medical school.

The plan, as proposed by the committee, probably would require eight years for its full realization at the cost of several hundred thousand dollars a year, the report said.

However, Dr. Byrd said he believed the project could be completed in much less time and at much less cost. He did not say exactly how much he thought it would cost, and did not disclose complete details of the proposed new medical faculty organization.

In regard to improvements at the medical school, however, the University of Maryland president made these suggestions:

1. Provide full-time heads and workers in the clinical departments.
2. Increase salaries.
3. Construct a new wing to the University Hospital, adding 150 beds to make it a 600-bed institution.
4. Operate extension courses in the form of graduate training for practicing physicians.
5. Reduce cost of medical education. It now costs Marylanders about $525 a year to study medicine and should cost $300, Dr. Byrd said.
6. Establish closer relations with other hospitals for all purposes.
7. Develop research in the clinical departments and expand research in pre-clinical departments.

No decision on changes or improvements will be made at the medical school until the University Board of Regents makes a study of present proposals. The board is expected to decide in the next two months just what action it will take.

Trial Of Yugoslavs Who Shot Down Americans Urged By VFW

BOSTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — The veterans of Foreign Wars convention warmed today to exhortations from the nation's top military figures for a policy of "peace through strength" and took preliminary steps to consider a resolution demanding Yugoslavs responsible for shooting American airmen be brought to trial.

The resolution was drafted for later convention action by its resolution committee as General Dwight D. Eisenhower told cheering delegates that the United States must struggle patiently—even though at times patience wears thin"—for world peace through the mechanism of the United Nations.

The army chief of staff denounced an accusation of Donald M. Nelson, former War Productions Board Chairman, that the military was attempting to get control of the country's economy and declared "the army wants no domination over anything but its own affairs."

Delegates to the 47th National Encampment of the VFW, representing two million former overseas soldiers, sailors and airmen, focused their attention on the troubled international situation, but took cognizance also of two domestic issues—the Ku Klux Klan and the housing shortage.

A resolution—drafted by the Georgia delegation and approved unanimously by the powerful Resolutions Committee — compared the Klan to the Nazi S. S. Corps and Gestapo and denounced the organization as a potential "treasonous" group.

"The S. S. Corps and the Gestapo," the resolution said, "were far less formidable or numerous in their early days than is the present evolution of the revived Ku Klux Klan."

With growing concern over housing shortage voiced openly among delegates, Wilson Wyatt, Federal Housing Administrator, told them that despite criticism that the government program was moving ahead faster than it ever had before. He said that 907,100 dwellings were started in the first seven months of this year—more than half the goal of 1,200,000 starts for this year.

Work stoppages had impeded the program, he said, and then shouted "the government did not promise to end the housing shortage in six months."

National War College Opens Its Doors Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The newly created National War College, where such subjects as atomic warfare and international relations will be studied in connection with an integrated military-diplomatic policy, opened its doors today.

To a student body of 106 army, navy and air force colonels and captains and State department officers, Vice Admiral Harry W. Hill, commandant of the school, explained:

"Recent technological developments have brought us to the threshold of a new age. The implications of nuclear physics and the atomic bomb may require a complete re-orientation of our old ideas regarding national policy and security."

The curriculum will include military science and strategy and the related subjects of international relations—the United Nations, the factors of power as they bear upon a nation's ability to wage total war, the objectives of the United States in world relations.

First course will be "Security in The Atomic Age," with the problem of international control of atomic energy discussed by various outstanding authorities including James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, and Senator McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the Senate Atomic Energy committee.

The school operated by the joint chiefs of staff and State department, will train ranking army, navy and airforce officers and State department men for future duties at high policy making levels.

Pittsburgh Light Workers To Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3 (AP) — An independent union of Duquesne Light Company employes tonight voted to call a strike in the bustling Pittsburgh Metropolitan area but left the date of the work stoppage to a committee.

Union President George Mueller said in reply to a question that the strike might be called "within three or four days."

The vote, 1008 to 568 among the rank and file membership, was taken at a mass meeting of union members called after expiration of a notice of intent to strike.

The union has been negotiating its demands for 20 percent wage increases with the company for long weeks. All discussions have been fruitless, despite entrance of Mayor David L. Lawrence in the role of volunteer mediator.

Drivers Forfeit Bonds

Karl F. Mewshaw, 506 Franklin street, and Joseph Mallick, Norfolk Va., both charged with careless driving, forfeited $10 bonds in police court yesterday while Harold E. Rizer, Frostburg, was fined $5 on the same charge. All three drivers were arrested Sunday by city police.

HIT BY BULLET—Frank Waters, Jr., 16 months old, sits in a hospital bed at Las Vegas, Nev., after receiving treatment for a superficial wound on his knee inflicted by a bullet which brought death to his father, Frank Waters, 38-year-old bank clerk, Monday. The baby's mother, Mrs. Bridget Waters, of England, estranged from her husband, whom she accused in a bitter separation trial last July of deserting her and the baby, shot the baby's father through the heart according to police.

Conventions held at the state capitol yesterday.

In Tennessee, meanwhile, E. H. Crump, Memphis, Tenn., Democratic leader, returned from an eastern vacation with the comment that the Democrats have "overplayed their hand throughout the country in relying on the CIO." He said "the Democratic Party in the large eastern and northern states have been relying too much on the CIO," adding: "People are resenting it."

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Keynoter

At Albany Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt declared the Dewey state administration had been taking credit for policies and programs "initiated by the previous Democratic governors from Governor Smith through to Governor Lehman." The former first lady keynoted the state Democratic convention.

State Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick got things going by calling Dewey a false liberal. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt followed up with a keynote address—the first by a woman—in a similar tone. Dewey, she said, merely followed the pioneering trail of Democratic predecessors. She listed her late husband, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and Herbert H. Lehman.

Lehman looked like a sure shot for the Democratic nomination to the Senate seat Mead now occupies.

In the Republican convention at Saratoga Springs, Assembly Leader Irving M. Ives apparently had the inside track to the senatorial nomination.

State Chairman Glen R. Bedenkapp opened the G.O.P. meeting with a declaration that only the Republican Party has the courage to decide on candidates and policies "solely on the basis of the best interests of the people of this state."

In Nevada, Reno gamblers listed Rep. Berkeley L. Bunker as the favorite to capture the Democratic senatorial nomination from the incumbent, E. P. Carville. In the gubernatorial contest, S. W. Conwell, a miner, opposed Gov. Vail Pittman.

Outnumbered two to one in the registration, the Republicans lined up these contestants:

Security Council

hear the charges on the ground that the council could not refuse to hear any complaint brought by a member of the United Nations. At the same time the United States declined to comment on the validity of the Ukrainian complaint.

The voting was marked by a split between the United States and Great Britain on the question of procedure. The British fought, along with the Netherlands, to keep the case from the agenda in what the British delegate called its present unsubstantiated form.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, delivered a 16-page statement on the case, taking up most of the four-hour meeting of the council.

Gromyko said the Greek people had been deprived of the chance of freely deciding on their government in the recent plebiscite because of the foreign armies in Greece during the voting. He demanded to know when it was necessary to have foreign armies in the country of a United Nations member during a vote.

Gromyko said he hoped the council would "take such measures as would help the restoration" of normal conditions in the Balkans.

One point of the Ukrainian charge is that the Greek government is aided by the presence of British troops in Greece.

Alexandre Parodi, French delegate, said the Council already had started discussing the question and noted that such procedure was not normal.

"What will there be left to say after today?" Parodi asked. "I doubt if the Ukrainian representative would be able to give any more than we have heard today."

Paul Hasluck, of Australia, who abstained from voting, said he had heard nothing to change his opinion that the complaint had not been presented in strict conformity with the charter.

He explained that Lundeberg's union had dropped approximately 70 other demands in exchange for the higher rate for able-bodied seamen and that "this will mean opening up all those demands again."

Chairman W. Willard Wirtz of the wage board was scheduled to be out of the city until Thursday, but labor member Walter Mason said he would press for immediate board action on reconsideration in time to avert a strike.

its course so as to seek safety even though such action may result in flying over Yugoslav territory without prior clearance," he observed.

Takes Issue With Tito

Clayton also took sharp issue with Tito over whether the attacking Yugoslav fighters had given a landing signal to the American plane forced down August 9.

"These fighters made no signal which could be interpreted as a landing signal," he asserted. They did wobble their wings, which according to United States practice is the accepted signal to attract attention to the plane making the signal. The Yugoslav fighters then attacked without any warning whatsoever."

Clayton handled tersely the forced crash of the second American transport plane on August 19, in which five American lives were lost, and the question whether it actually had flown over Yugoslav territory.

"The pilot and crew of this unarmed American transport are dead, shot down by Yugoslav armed aircraft," he said.

After his vigorous denial of Yugoslav claims and the grim recital of the two crashes, Clayton made it plain that the United States hopes for an early settlement of the matter.

In response to new Yugoslav demands that unauthorized flights be stopped, Clayton said standing orders to this effect had been enforced throughout the period in question and that these orders "will continue to be carried out in the future."

Tito's claims that American planes violated Yugoslavian territory were made prior to his note delivered Sunday at the United States embassy in Belgrade. In this note, the Yugoslav premier:

1. Extended formal Yugoslav regrets over the plane crashes which cost five American lives.

Say Ultimatum Too Severe

2. Had given strictest orders to the Yugoslav armed forces not to fire again on American planes, even though they might be over Yugoslav soil "intentionally."

3. Protested however, that a United States ultimatum of Aug. 21 was far too severe in light of Yugoslavia's position as a wartime ally.

Tito previously had expressed the regrets and assurances to United States Ambassador Richard C. Patterson in a conversation Aug. 22. The United States had insisted, however, on having them in writing.

Because Tito's latest note was delivered Sunday, United States officials gave it considerably more weight than another communication left at the State Department Friday by Dr Sergije Makiedo, charge d'affaires of the Yugoslav embassy.

The Friday note protested again in strong terms over what Yugoslavia calls continued unauthorized flights by American planes over its territory.

Officials cited as possibly the most significant part of the note, however, a statement that the Yugoslav Government "can not be held responsible" for the five Americans killed Aug. 19 because it had done everything possible to "avoid such results."

Johnson Would Cancel UNRRA

American officials wondered if that statement meant Tito would not agree to pay an indemnity for the loss of lives and property.

They pointed out that the United States already had undertaken investigations of the flights. It could not be learned at the State Department when this country would present its indemnity bill.

he urged the conference to accept a Yugoslav boundary proposal offered to the foreign ministers early last July.

Yugoslavia proposed then that Trieste be awarded to her to prevent Italy from having a bridgehead into Yugoslavia and to insure that Trieste was "not separated from its hinterland."

National War College Opens Its Doors Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The newly created National War College, where such subjects as atomic warfare and international relations will be studied in connection with an integrated military-diplomatic policy, opened its doors today.

To a student body of 100 army, navy and air force colonels and captains and State department officers, Vice Admiral Harry W. Hill, commandant of the school, explained:

"Recent technological developments have brought us to the threshold of a new age. The implications of nuclear physics and the atomic bomb may require a complete re-orientation of our old ideas regarding national policy and security."

The curriculum will include military science and strategy and the related subjects of international relations—the United Nations, the factors of power as they bear upon a nation's ability to wage total war, the objectives of the United States in world relations.

First course will be "Security in The Atomic Age," with the problem of international control of atomic energy discussed by various outstanding authorities including James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, and Senator McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the Senate Atomic Energy committee.

The school operated by the joint chiefs of staff and State department, will train ranking army, navy and airforce officers and State department men for future duties at high policy making levels.

Pittsburgh Light Workers To Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3 (AP) — An independent union of Duquesne Light Company employes tonight voted to call a strike in the bustling Pittsburgh Metropolitan area but left the date of the work stoppage to a committee.

Union President George Mueller said in reply to a question that the strike might be called "within three or four days."

The vote, 1008 to 568 among the rank and file membership, was taken at a mass meeting of union members called after expiration of a notice of intent to strike.

The union has been negotiating its demands for 20 percent wage increases with the company for long weeks. All discussions have been fruitless, despite entrance of Mayor David L. Lawrence in the role of volunteer mediator.

Drivers Forfeit Bonds

Karl F. Mewshaw, 506 Franklin street, and Joseph Mallick, Norfolk Va., both charged with careless driving, forfeited $10 bonds in police court yesterday while Harold E. Riner, Frostburg, was fined $5 on the same charge. All three drivers were arrested Sunday by city police.

HIT BY BULLET—Frank Waters, Jr., 16 months old, sits in a hospital bed at Las Vegas, Nev., after receiving treatment for a superficial wound on his knee inflicted by a bullet which brought death to his father, Frank Waters, 38-year-old bank clerk, Monday. The baby's mother, Mrs. Bridget Waters, of England, estranged from her husband, whom she accused in a bitter separation trial last July of deserting her and the baby, shot the baby's father through the heart according to police.

Conventions held at the state capitol yesterday.

In Tennessee, meanwhile, E. H. Crump, Memphis, Tenn., Democratic leader, returned from an eastern vacation with the comment that the Democrats have "overplayed their hand throughout the country in relying on the CIO." He said "the Democratic Party in the large eastern and northern states have been relying too much on the CIO," adding: "People are resenting it."

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Keynoter

At Albany Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt declared the Dewey state administration had been taking credit for policies and programs "initiated by the previous Democratic governors from Governor Smith through to Governor Lehman." The former first lady keynoted the state Democratic convention.

State Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick got things going by calling Dewey a false liberal. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt followed up with a keynote address—the first by a woman—in a similar tone. Dewey, she said, merely followed the pioneering trail of Democratic predecessors. She listed her late husband, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and Herbert H. Lehman.

Lehman looked like a sure shot for the Democratic nomination to the Senate seat Mead now occupies.

In the Republican convention at Saratoga Springs, Assembly Leader Irving M. Ives apparently had the inside track to the senatorial nomination.

State Chairman Glen R. Bedenkapp opened the G.O.P. meeting with a declaration that only the Republican Party has the courage to decide on candidates and policies "solely on the basis of the best interests of the people of this state."

In Nevada, Reno gamblers listed Rep. Berkeley L. Bunker as the favorite to capture the Democratic senatorial nomination from the incumbent, E. P. Carville. In the gubernatorial contest, S. W. Conwell, a miner, opposed Gov. Vail Pittman.

Outnumbered two to one in the registration, the Republicans lined up these contestants:

Security Council

hear the charges on the grounds that the council could not refuse to hear any complaint brought by a member of the United Nations. At the same time the United States declined to comment on the validity of the Ukrainian complaint.

The voting was marked by a split between the United States and Great Britain on the question of procedure. The British fought, along with the Netherlands, to keep the case from the agenda in what the British delegate called its present unsubstantiated form.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, delivered a 16-page statement on the case, taking up most of the four-hour meeting of the council.

Gromyko said the Greek people had been deprived of the chance of freely deciding on their government in the recent plebiscite because of the foreign armies in Greece during the voting. He demanded to know when it was necessary to have foreign armies in the country of a United Nations member during a vote.

Gromyko said he hoped the council would "take such measures as would help the restoration" of normal conditions in the Balkans.

One point of the Ukrainian charge is that the Greek government is aided by the presence of British troops in Greece.

Alexandre Parodi, French delegate, said the Council already had started discussing the question and noted that such procedure was not normal.

"What will there be left to say after today?" Parodi asked. "I doubt if the Ukrainian representative would be able to give any more than we have heard today."

Paul Hasluck, of Australia, who abstained from voting, said he had heard nothing to change his opinion that the complaint had not been presented in strict conformity with the charter.

in the original decision by denying the higher rates.

He explained that Lundeberg's union had dropped approximately 70 other demands in exchange for the higher rate for able-bodied seamen and that "this will mean opening up all those demands again."

Chairman W. Willard Wirtz of the wage board was scheduled to be out of the city until Thursday, but labor member Walter Mason said he would press for immediate board action on reconsideration in time to avert a strike.

its course so as to seek safety even though such action may result in flying over Yugoslav territory without prior clearance," he observed.

Takes Issue With Tito

Clayton also took sharp issue with Tito over whether the attacking Yugoslav fighters had given a landing signal to the American plane forced down August 9.

"These fighters made no signal which could be interpreted as a landing signal," he asserted. They did wobble their wings, which according to United States practice is the accepted signal to attract attention to the plane making the signal. The Yugoslav fighters then attacked without any warning whatsoever."

Clayton handled tersely the forced crash of the second American transport plane on August 19, in which five American lives were lost, and the question whether it actually had flown over Yugoslav territory.

"The pilot and crew of this unarmed American transport are dead, shot down by Yugoslav armed aircraft," he said.

After his vigorous denial of Yugoslav claims and the grim recital of the two crashes, Clayton made it plain that the United States hopes for an early settlement of the matter.

In response to new Yugoslav demands that unauthorized flights be stopped, Clayton said standing orders to this effect had been enforced throughout the period in question and that these orders "will continue to be carried out in the future."

Tito's claims that American planes violated Yugoslavian territory were made prior to his note delivered Sunday at the United States embassy in Belgrade. In this note, the Yugoslav premier:

1. Extended formal Yugoslav regrets over the plane crashes which cost five American lives.

Say Ultimatum Too Severe

2. Had given strictest orders to the Yugoslav armed forces not to fire again on American planes, even though they might be over Yugoslav soil "intentionally."

3. Protested however, that a United States ultimatum of Aug. 21 was far too severe in light of Yugoslavia's position as a wartime ally.

Tito previously had expressed the regrets and assurances to United States Ambassador Richard C. Patterson in a conversation Aug. 22.

The United States had insisted, however, on having them in writing.

Because Tito's latest note was delivered Sunday, United States officials gave it considerably more weight than another communication left at the State Department Friday by Dr Sergije Makiedo, charge d'affaires of the Yugoslav embassy.

The Friday note protested again in strong terms over what Yugoslavia calls continued unauthorized flights by American planes over its territory.

Officials cited as possibly the most significant part of the note, however, a statement that the Yugoslav Government "can not be held responsible" for the five Americans killed Aug. 19 because it had done everything possible to "avoid such results."

Johnson Would Cancel UNRRA

American officials wondered if that statement meant Tito would not agree to pay an indemnity for the loss of lives and property.

They pointed out that the United States already had undertaken investigations of the flights. It could not be learned at the State Department when this country would present its indemnity bill.

Yugoslavia

he urged the conference to accept a Yugoslav boundary proposal offered to the foreign ministers early last July.

Yugoslavia proposed then that Trieste be awarded to her to prevent Italy from having a bridgehead into Yugoslavia and to insure that Trieste was "not separated from its hinterland."

Girl Who Dislikes "Necking" And Doesn't Know What To Do Offers Poetic Complaint

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love And Marriage

It may be hard to believe, but I frequently receive letters from girls who complain that their boy friends are too shy to kiss them. In all seriousness, they ask me what they should do to get a little more ardent attention from their escorts.

On the other hand, there are girls who don't seem to have this trouble at all. Indeed, they seem to find themselves forced to fight off unwanted embrace whenever they go out with a boy.

From a girl who signs herself "A Reader" comes this letter:

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I would appreciate it very much if you would print the enclosed poem in your column. I am in hopes that some fellows may read it and take heed.

"My girl friends and I have been discussing the problem and are at a loss to know what to do. Of course we can stop the fellows, but they should know, I think, not to expect to have a girl neck with them on every date.

"A READER".

And here is the poem:

A Plea

Why does it have to be like this?
Why does a boy just have to kiss?
No matter the face, no matter the name,
Alone with a girl, they're all the same.
When driving along a road that's dark
His strongest impression is to park.

Maybe he likes the lipstick taste,

Or maybe he has come time to waste.
But time like air is warm and free
Whenever a boy's on a necking spree

After the wrestling match is done,
You wonder who has really won.
Your lipstick is gone or smeared a lot,
A neat hair-do is all shot.
In the light he looks so queer
With lipstick smeared from ear to ear.

I'd like just once to meet a boy
Whose company I would enjoy—
A boy who would gain my respect
Just because he doesn't neck!

Well, I hope this is going to do the trick for these poor girls. But, frankly, my feeling would be that if, as this writer says in her letter, they can "stop the fellows," that approach would be more effective.

There are always going to be boys who like to see how far they can go with a girl. If she objects, they either think she is playing hard-to-get, or they want to see if they can overcome these objections. It makes them feel they are being strang "he-men", amateur Clark Gables or Gary Coopers.

If these girls are serious in their dislike of "necking", it seems they should be able to make the boys understand that when they say no, they mean it. After all, they can always refuse a second invitation from a boy who has made himself obnoxious.

Labor Day In 1947 Can Mean Much To All America

Labor Day, traditionally a day to honor labor's great contribution to the national welfare, to review labor's gains and to pay tribute to those who did such a marvelous production job in wartime, was observed here much as usual.

The day found more than sixty million Americans on private and public payrolls. Civilian employment alone is almost four million above the wartime peak. It found hourly wage rates higher than ever before—up in manufacturing industries some 60 percent over prewar levels. Yet it finds workers uneasy, resentful and fearful of the future. Or so the country is told by the leaders of great unions who, though their membership totals less than one-third of all employed civilians, profess to be the spokesmen for labor.

This statement came from a recent national conference of CIO officials:

"The American people are being made increasingly aware of a widespread and sinister conspiracy on the part of organized employers in this country to depress real wages, to establish speed-ups, to pyramid profits and to torpedo the living standards of all the people."

The statement was quoted with enthusiastic approval by the Communist Party's "Daily Worker." It accords with the party-line propaganda, which seeks to indict "greedy capitalism" for every economic ill, including the price inflation that does indeed threaten to destroy the buying power of history's highest wage rates. But it does not, we think, accord with the facts.

Few employers are insane enough to suppose that they can prosper by torpedoing American living standards. Most employers have sense enough to know that employes are also customers; that low wages cannot be a firm foundation for high profits; that inflation depresses real profits as well as real wages.

And, probably, there never was less danger than there is today that the speed-up—the inhuman driving of workers to the limit of their endurance—will be established in industry. Russia is the only place where the speed-up is encouraged by national policy. A greater danger, we think, is that labor will fail to recognize and act on the truthful principle that wealth must be created before it can be distributed and enjoyed. This last year's efforts to push wage rates upward were understandable. But to the extent that they prevented production of goods and services they defeated their own purpose.

To the extent that the hourly wage increases gained have not been accompanied by corresponding increases in productivity per man per hour they have lowered the general standard of living, not raised it.

That workers and employers alike may realize more clearly in the coming year that their true interests are identical, was our wish for America, as the curtain descended on Labor Day this year. They have everything to lose by fighting each other, and already they have lost much.

The nation's store of wealth can be vastly increased. That opportunity is still theirs. If fairly distributed, it can mean prosperity for all. If they work together in loyal partnership, a happier story can be told on Labor Day next year.

Summer brought the urge to hit the open road—which we usually found closed for repairs.

Fly May Be Traveling Path Of Dodo And Mastodon

Those who compose the present generation may some day tell their children of the era when flies infested houses and people kept a weapon, then known as a fly swatter, handy to crush the pests. The children, if dutiful and imaginative, will express astonishment that such winged insects once lived in homes and that cave-man tactics had to be resorted to as a means of combating them.

The good news that the fly may be traveling the path of the dodo and the mastodon comes from Dr. C. H. Curran, associate curator of the insect and spider department of the American Museum of Natural History. His statement was based on the results of carefully-planned experiments in fly control conducted at Bear Mountain State Park in New York since June, 1945. It is alleged that these experiments, in which careful spraying operations embodying a DDT residual-type spray combined with other elements fatal to the insect were employed, have practically eliminated flies from the entire Bear Mountain Inn and administration area.

Of course, no scientist is expected to issue a statement without adding a reservation of some kind, and Dr. Curran is no exception. He has been an outstanding authority on flies and their control for more than a quarter of a century. He warns that while the tests indicate that a solution to fly problems finally has been found, the program developed at Bear Mountain required a trained scientific staff and careful analysis of specialized local conditions.

The effectiveness of the program, he says, depended not only on the improved materials used, but also upon methods of application perfected after continuous experimentation on the grounds in the last two summers. He said the program consisted of two spraying operations in the late spring and early fall.

Perhaps when and if all the flies have been eliminated from the world, it will be ascertained whether their purpose was principally to act as pests or whether they had some more profound reason for their existence. Flies often appear to be a symptom that something is wrong with sanitation. When the symptom is gone, it is possible that some people will pay less heed to maintenance of sanitary conditions. But to get rid of flies will be a blessing in many respects, including the elimination of stories and jokes based on the insect's proclivity to annoy bald-headed men.

It's hard to be crooked and keep a straight face.

Free Speech Their Right, Women Contend

A police lieutenant in Blue Island, Ill., put a 30-second limit on telephone calls made by wives to their husbands on the force, and was amazed when the wives swamped him with protests. He should have known better.

More than the right to say what they please, Americans cherish the right to talk as long as they please on certain occasions. These occasions include telephone calls with at least one woman involved, after-dinner speeches, speeches in legislative halls, and accounts of vacations.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A SPLASHING HEART

THE heart occupies a choice site within the body. This is not to be marveled at when we consider the importance of the structure. In addition to being surrounded by the bony framework of the chest, the lung tissue also protects it to a lesser degree.

As a further precaution the organ is incased in the pericardium, a thin walled sac. This membrane affords considerable freedom of action by separating the cardiac apparatus from the lungs and nearby vessels. Moreover, it serves as a barrier to disease, otherwise organisms in the breathing tract might have easy access to the heart muscle.

Inflammation of the structure is known as "pericarditis." The condition occurs more frequently than we suspect as it is prone to develop with many heart afflictions, particularly rheumatic fever and coronary thrombosis. These maladies assume greater prominence and, therefore, steal the show. Then, too, symptoms of involvement of this part of the organ seldom appear and the sufferer is none the wiser. Now and then the disorder arises during the course of pneumonia, influenza, tonsillitis, or tuberculosis.

The bout can be compared to infection in the nose. The membranes become red and inflamed, and the discharge escapes thru the nasal passages. By contrast, exit from the pericardium is not possible because it has no openings. In the majority of cases, little fluid forms and, as healing takes place, the material is absorbed into the system. The situation is different, however, when the secretions are excessive or puslike in character. As a rule, the episode is painless unless infection extends to the diaphragm. In these circumstances, discomfort is usually felt during inspiration and resembles the "stitch in the side" of pleurisy.

As the exudate gathers and the walls stretch, the heart can be visualized as beating within a pouch filled with liquid. Occasionally, even the splashing can be heard. There is a limit to the amount that can collect for the process tends to impede the pumping action. Furthermore, the fluid presses on the arteries and the veins coming and going from the organ, causing weakness, faintness, and breathelessness. The blood traveling from the brain has difficulty in entering, resulting in distention of the veins in the neck. The circulation from the abdomen and legs is also obstructed and in consequence the liver, abdomen, and ankles become swollen and engorged.

Sometimes there is pressure on the lungs and bronchial tubes leading to hoarseness, irritating cough, or shortness of breath. When distress is severe, most victims must sit upright or lean forward slightly in order to breathe with ease.

Removal of the confined fluid or pus is necessary if relief is to be expected. Sometimes surgery is demanded and an opening is made in the chest wall to allow the purulent secretion to drain freely. The sulfas and penicillin have been helpful in eradicating the invaders especially when the pneumococcus, staphysponsible.

lococcus, or streptococcus is re-

In some instances, scar tissue follows convalescence. In time these bands tighten and may actually squeeze the heart and the large vessels in somewhat the same manner as did the accumulated material. An operation can now be performed in which the fiberous bands and thickened tissues are loosened thus relieving constriction.

RATS AND MICE

D. L. writes: Can mice carry the same diseases as rats?

REPLY

In the laboratory mice and rats are frequently used interchangeably in inoculating infections. In their wild state on the other hand the mouse is a vegetarian and the rat is carnivorous and cannibalistic. To date we know of only one disease which mice can transmit to human beings. Many more are ascribed to rats.

CURVED NAILS

J. S. writes: What causes spoon nails?

REPLY

The exact cause is obscure but heredity may be a factor as well as anemia, infection or persistent washing of the hands in strong alkalis. Sometimes the condition is seen in those suffering from wasting or debilitating diseases.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I gathered up my slugs and hopped into my car when I heard of the new "gaseteria" that opened in Hollywood. I found the new vending machine to be a great improvement over the old-fashioned gas station. You drive up, drop in some coins, and fill your own tank ... It's a sort of high-octane jukebox, and really very convenient. Now there's no one to keep me from squeezing the hose.

The new vending machine is a very complicated piece of mechanism that does everything but screw the cap back on the tank. No kidding, it even gives back change by filling your cigarette lighter! As for the dealer, it gives him more time for other activities .. he now sits out back with an income-tax collector selling used cars.

The first day the gaseteria opened it caused quite a bit of excitement among the local citizens ... a guy drank three quarts of the stuff before he found out it wasn't soda-pop. No kidding, now when I blow my soup ... voila ... flaming pudding! Looks as if everything would be served up in machines soon and I understand one company is putting out a vending machine that will serve a six-course meal complete with fingerbowl for six-bits. It will be confusing, though ... they plan to call it the "gaseteria" also.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Interior Department Will Cut Red Tape; Will Make Alaska Tourists' Paradise; Statehood For Territory Being Urged, J. A. Krug Says

By J. A. KRUG

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by several distinguished guest columnists — today's by J. A. "Cap" Krug, secretary of the interior, who has just returned from an extensive survey of Alaska.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A few days ago, I was walking down the wooden sidewalk of the Indian village of Metlakatla, Alaska. On either side, the evergreen branches of spruce and hemlock tossed in a stiff breeze fresh off the sea. In the distance rose mountain heights still bearing the snows of last winter. From the belfry of the white community church chimed the soft and solemn strains of "America" and later "America, the Beautiful."

It was an inspiring sight and sound. It made me proud to be an American and to have a part in the building of a great empire there in the nation's farthest north and farthest west.

Metlakatla was the last of a dozen Alaska communities visited on a trip which took me and some of my associates of the Interior Department 12,000 miles, half of it within the borders of the great territory of Alaska—an enormous and wonderful country. It is one-fifth as large as the United States.

Alaska is the land of promise. It is an unspoiled country of great opportunity. While it now has only about 85,000 inhabitants, very substantial growth and development lie just ahead. In fact, they are already under way.

Want Statehood

Right now, most Alaskans are thinking about statehood. On every hand we heard advocates of statehood. Nowhere did we hear opposition, although I was informed that some does exist.

The people of the territory are to vote October 8 on a referendum question: "Are you in favor of statehood for Alaska?" This is the first step. If the vote is favorable, as I judge it will be from the evidence of Alaskans' attitude, the territory's delegate to Congress will press statehood legislation at the next session. Alaska's present delegate, E. L. "Bob" Bartlett, is strong for statehood. So is Gov. Ernest Gruening. So am I. Only under statehood, I feel, will Alaska realize her great destiny.

Rep. Bob Poage, of Texas, has an answer. He believes Alaska should be at least three states. Then no one of them would be larger than Texas.

One of the most interesting places visited was Barrow. It is the farthest north settlement under the American flag, only 18 degrees of latitude from the pole. The 500 Eskimo inhabitants turned out en masse to greet us, and one of the pictures I will always carry with me is that of the entire village descending to the beach to see us off. Someone started singing the hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and soon every voice had joined in.

At the Eskimo meal which the people of the village spread for us, it was announced that a child which had been born that morning had been named Don Foster, after the head of the Alaska native service, who was a member of our party. Later I learned that the teacher and the minister had tried to get the parents to name the baby Julius after me, but they said "no." I don't blame them. My son is named "Jim."

Eskimo Hitchhiker

Fred Ipalook, secretary of the village council at Barrow and an outstanding Eskimo, had some business at Nome, which is weeks away overland. I invited him to come with us on the plane. As it happened, the Nome area was completely closed in by cloud and fog from the Bering Sea when we arrived overhead, so that we had to fly on to Anchorage. Fred had never been south of Nome. He had never seen a tree. He had never seen so many people as he saw at Fort Richardson and Anchorage.

The army flew Fred back to Barrow by way of Fairbanks, but he went home without ever conducting his business in Nome. "Next time," one of the Alaskan newspapers put it, "he will know better than to accept a ride with strangers."

Flying in Alaska is a principal business. The number of passenger-miles flown there in a year is 30 times as many, per capita, as in the states.

I have the utmost respect for the bush pilots who have pioneered aviation in that vast, uncharted country. I flew with them in southeast Alaska, where we had some calls to make at communities without airfields and where only float planes would serve. How they can find their way in rain and fog through the thousands of islands of the Alexander archipelago is a mystery to me.

The day Alaskan coastal and Ellis airlines flew us from Juneau to Sitka to Ketchikan, the storm clouds were riding the white caps of the Pacific. Even the Alaskan ducks and geese were sitting that one out, but the pilots flew us safely right through it. They fly anywhere, any time. In that part of Alaska the saying is that the only time the planes are grounded is when the snow is so thick the pilots can't see their propellers.

Alaskan Chaff

Some interesting facts about Alaska: It is as far from the easternmost to the westernmost points of Alaska as from Charleston, S. C., to Los Angeles and as far from the northernmost to the southernmost as from Lake of the Woods Canada to the Mexican border . . . Japonski island, opposite Sitka, is believed locally to have been so named by the Russians because it was to be the original landing place for Japanese which Gov. Alexander Baranof, first governor of Russian America, planned to import as slave labor. . . . During the Russian occupation, Sitka was the largest and most prosperous settlement on the entire Pacific coast of North America. . . . All the real sealskin coats in the world originate in two small islands off the Alaskan coast—the Pribilofs. These islands have a population of approximately 470 Aleuts and 3,000,000 fur seals. The pelts of the latter at present market prices are worth about $87.50 apiece. . . . The spruce and hemlock forests of southeastern Alaska alone can produce in perpetuity almost 1,000,000 tons of sulphite pulp a year, which is about one-fourth of the present newsprint consumption in the United States . . . The temperature in the Yukon valley on the Arctic circle reaches as high as 100 degrees in mid-summer . . . The Aleuts of the Aleutian islands and the Alaskan peninsula are communicants of the Russian orthodox faith. Most of these people are as much Russian as Aboriginals in blood. Fairbanks had a Russian population of several hundreds all during the war when this was the point at which lend-lease planes were transferred to be flown on to the U.S.S.R. . . . There are many points of contact between Alaska and Russia. Russia's big Diomede island is but two miles distant from our little Diomede island in the middle of Bering Strait. The Eskimo inhabitants of the two islands have exchanged family visits for many years and have, until recently, intermarried.

Tourist Paradise

One of the great opportunities in Alaska is the tourist industry. In Alaska you will see the most magnificent scenery in the world. It is everywhere in Alaska. One of the objectives of my department in the immediate future will be to cut away the red tape now involved in establishing tourist facilities in the territory. For hundreds of thousands—perhaps millions—of Americans will be wanting to see the wonders of our last great frontier. I recommend a trip to Alaska for anyone who is feeling despondent about the world. It will renew his faith in the pioneer hardihood of our nation and open vistas ahead.

Real Men Are So Few; One Died Only Days Ago

By SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL

A man died the other day. As real men are so few, when one dies, it should be reported. This was the kind of man Josiah G. Holland wrote of: "God give us men—whom the spoils of office cannot buy—men who possess opinions and a will—men who have honor—men who will not lie.

The public is cynical these days—cynical about platform pledges and candidates' promises. Statements of the highest officials, and even "government statistics," are subject to heavy discount. "Who gets what, when, and how" is the key to political success. "Nobody shoots Santa Claus" has become a proverb. In such a time it is worth our note when a man dies.

I refer to U. S. Supreme Court Justice McReynolds, the last of the old guard of McReynolds, Butler, Sutherland and Vandevanter.

When these men refused to sanction the repudiation of the solemn promise of the United States to pay its bonds in gold, McReynolds wrote that the "impending legal and moral chaos is appalling." Was he right? Does anyone really believe that the debt will ever be paid? Does anyone know what the law is on any federal matter? Does any business man know? Justice Roberts has said Supreme Court decisions were no better than railroad tickets, good for the day and trip only.

"Moral Chaos" Deepened

The "moral chaos" McReynolds foresaw has deepened until the federal government prints money to pay its bills without any shame whatever—a snide and cowardly [illegible] which millions of little [illegible] are paying for as their own [illegible] out filches the value out of the [illegible]ings.

[illegible]is man wrote notable decisions upholding civil rights and was perhaps the most relentless and successful proecutor of big business violators of our anti-trust laws we have ever had.

The crime of McReynolds was that he held unflinchingly that it is not the business of Congress or the President or the Supreme Court to amend the Constitution. That is the people's business. Because he fought to protect the rights of the people in their great charter he was smeared, by the breast-beaters for "democracy," as a "Tory" and "reactionary."

Well, the job of changing the Constitution has been done—but the fruit, bitter or sweet, remains to be gathered.

A bachelor, austere in manner, he "adopted" 33 child victims of the blitzkrieg in England. McReynolds was denounced by "humanitarians," but if some of them in high places dug into their own pockets for such purposes, it has not been reported.

Protector of All Classes

"It is my obligation as a judge," he said, "to protect the backwoodsman in the hills of Georgia as well as the man of wealth on Fifth Avenue, and the man in the mansion as well as the dweller in a cottage." Not a bad ideal for a judge. Do we sleep sounder as politicians and pressure groups make public life intolerable for such men?

Vilified as few men have been in our times, charged with "hardening of the judicial arteries," he stood by his principles to the end. At the last, he stood alone.

But no one will charge him with the political smut that has tarnished and corroded our public affairs, that has made us a nation of cynics.

Yes, occasionally this Republic breeds a man. Count them. It is an easy task.

Must Constitution Apparently Give Way To The Wagner Labor Act?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—If you are an employer and happen to have a labor relations director or supervisor handling labor matters for you, don't by any means let him go anywhere near a bar, restaurant, movie house grocery store drug store, soda fountain or any other place where employes may congregate.

For the National Labor Relations Board, by a vote of 2 members to 1, has just ruled that it is an "unfair labor practice" and violates the Wagner law for a labor relations director to visit a bar where employes may be congregating. And since not all union members frequent places where hard liquor is sold, the ban presumably extends to soft drink establishments as well.

It doesn't matter that the gathering places are public and union members presumably do not talk about their secrets in public. But, unfortunately, such union members cannot take care of themselves and must come under the protection of the Labor Relations Board, and their remarks or comments must be safeguarded from being overheard. Maybe bars hereafter will have to install soundproof walls and forbid the entry of employers or labor relations directors, or operate some sort of segregation scheme. Maybe the Labor Relations Board soon will have some suggestions along this line. It merely says for the present, in the Clark case just decided, that to visit a bar under the circumstances outlined is a violation of the Wagner law. The board majority says:

What the Board Majority Said

"The trial examiner found that Thomas L. Moody, the respondent's (employer's) labor relations director, engaged in surveillance by visiting a drinking establishment on several occasions for the specific purpose of overhearing employe conversations regarding the organizational campaign of the CIO. We agree that such conduct is violative of the act. It is not a defense to such action, as the respondent (employer) asserts, that the employes may have been without knowledge of the surveillance. 'Any real surveillance by the employer over the union activity of employes, whether frankly open or carefully concealed falls under the prohibitions of the act' (NLRB vs. Collins and Aikman)."

What Is "Surveillance"?

The question of what is or is not "surveillance" is here open to some debate. Spying by using stooges at union meetings is forbidden surveillance, but presence in a barroom where union members congregate publicly seems hardly on a par with spying inside a union meeting. The trial examiner, whose findings have been adopted in the Clark case by a majority of the board, says:

"With respects to Moody's testimony, concerning his visits to the bars, the undersigned (trial examiner) finds, particularly in view of Moody's express admission as to the purpose of his visits, that Moody's conduct constituted surveillance by the respondent (employer) of union activities and of the union activities of its employes. This finding is not affected by the fact that Moody also testified that his object was not to find out what employes were interested in the union but rather to learn what was being said in the campaign. It is obvious that campaign statements of employes cannot be divorced from organizational activities and that what employes say under such circumstances will reflect their attitude toward and even membership in a union. The employer's defense that there is no showing that any of the employes had any knowledge that Moody overheard any of their conversations, or that any employes were discriminated against as a result thereof, is clearly without merit. Moody's conduct was nonetheless an interference with the employes' rights to self organization."

Board Ruled It Interference

Thus it apepars that, even though no discrimination was practiced and even though the presence of the labor director was not observed by the union men so that no possible charge of intimidation could be lodged against him, the board says it was an "interference" with the employes' "rights to self organization" for the labor relations director to have visited the bar in question.

The foregoing is related in detail so as to report the extent to which the National Labor Relations Board interprets the Wagner law as superseding the Constitution and all personal liberties of the citizen. The board now rules, in effect, that if an employer does anything which has hitherto been protected by the Constitution and Supreme Court decisions and if it conflicts with the Wagner Labor Relations Law—then the later law supersedes everything. The Constitution apparently must give way to the Wagner law.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

There's a legend around Broadway that I know a lot about the stock market, that I get inside information. I don't know how the story started. What I know about Wall Street you can find in Gypsy Mary's Dream Book. But when I refuse to predict the future of DuPont or U. S. Rubber, my friends denounce me for holding out on them. "If that Rose would open up," they whisper, "we could all retire." Lucky for them I don't—they'd end up selling pencils.

Billy Rose

But you can't kill a legend by denying it. Only this morning I got a telephone call from California. It was the head of one of the big Hollywood studios. Actors all over the world shake at the sound of his name. I shall call him Maxwell B. Maxwell.

"Billy Boy," he said, "thank God I found you in. This break in the market has got us all walking into lampposts. There are twenty people in my office and they're all going crazy. I said: What's the use of guessing when I can get on the phone and talk to the man who knows. What do you think of the oils, pal?"

"Why ask me, Max?" I protested. "I don't know anything about oil stocks."

"You can't refuse me," he pleaded. There's important money involved." He sounded as if he were talking to a doctor about an operation on his child.

What could I do? "Maxwell," I said, "the country is basically sound."

His sigh of relief made three thousand miles of wire tremble. Suddenly I realized that big stacks of blue chips would be bet on my silly say-so. "Hold it, Max," I said. "What's the use of guessing when I can get on the phone and talk to the man who knows?"

"Who do you mean?" he whispered.

"I can't mention his name on the phone," I said. "Never know who's listening. Call you back."

I hung up and phoned a friend of mine in Washington. I shall call him Horace B. Horace. He is so influential in government he never goes to a movie without leaving his name at the box office, so the President can get him if he needs him.

"Horace," I said, "I'm glad I found you in. This break in the market has everybody worried. Just between us, what do you think of the oil stocks?"

"Billy," he said, "I honestly don't know."

"Please, Horace," I said, "don't be coy with me. Real money is at stake."

"Well, Billy," he said, "I think conditions are fundamentally OK. But if it means that much to you, I can get on the phone and talk to the man who knows. I'll call you back."

Fifteen minutes later Horace was on the phone again. "You can sleep easy," he said. "I just talked to the one man in America who knows. He said the country is basically sound."

"Thanks a million," I said. "Horace, I know I'm out of line asking this, but I wonder if you'd mind telling me whom you talked to."

"Ssh," said Horace, "these wires may be tapped."

But I was desperate. "Please tell me," I pleaded. "On my honor, I won't ever tell a soul."

There was a pause, and then Horace said, "All right, if it's that important. It was Maxwell B. Maxwell of Hollywood."

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

For years I have formed the habit of keeping a diary during the summer months, for it is then that I am away from the routine of business, and so to speak, upon a mission of discovery and invention. Then it is that no days seem dull nor uninteresting. This period, therefore becomes a sort of repair time for the mind and body.

Another thing about keeping a diary—at the end of the day, when you jot things down, you often discover how very little you accomplished! But if you have learned at least one thing during the day that you never knew before, it has not been wholly lived in vain. I believe it a good thing to determine, at the beginning of a day, to discover at least one new thing, idea, or fact, that you never had in your mind before.

I discovered something today—that if you speak crossly to an animal, he reacts the same as a human being, proving our kinship to him. The mind, or human heart, or whatever it is that registers our emotions and reactions, is a most sensitive affair. It's like the reaction of an intricate piece of machinery, let the simplest part of its construction be tampered with, or get out of order, and the entire machine is at once affected. An unkind, or bidder word spoken, travels the length and breadth of the human body—and perhaps to the soul as well.

Out in nature, the mere discovery of a new flower that you have never seen before, or of an animal, or bird, is something to stir the emotions. In my wanderings I recently picked up a white piece of quartz with faint traces of gold in it! I placed it upon my desk as a paper weight to remind me of the glory of discovery.

It was a happy day when a friend suggested that I read Lafcadio Hearn's fine talks on literature, and another when a friend told me to read George Gissing and Alexander Smith. I read them, and now re-read them—with pleasure and profit mentally and spiritually, and praise those who led me to their discovery.

Adding to the line of the unknown author's: "Count that day lost, whose low, descending sun, views from thy hand no worthy" discovery gained!

Labor Day In 1947 Can Mean Much To All America

Labor Day, traditionally a day to honor labor's great contribution to the national welfare, to review labor's gains and to pay tribute to those who did such a marvelous production job in wartime, was observed here much as usual.

The day found more than sixty million Americans on private and public payrolls. Civilian employment alone is almost four million above the wartime peak. It found hourly wage rates higher than ever before—up in manufacturing industries some 60 percent over prewar levels. Yet it finds workers uneasy, resentful and fearful of the future. Or so the country is told by the leaders of great unions who, though their membership totals less than one-third of all employed civilians, profess to be the spokesmen for labor.

This statement came from a recent national conference of CIO officials:

"The American people are being made increasingly aware of a widespread and sinister conspiracy on the part of organized employers in this country to depress real wages, to establish speed-ups, to pyramid profits and to torpedo the living standards of all the people."

The statement was quoted with enthusiastic approval by the Communist Party's "Daily Worker." It accords with the party-line propaganda, which seeks to indict "greedy capitalism" for every economic ill, including the price inflation that does indeed threaten to destroy the buying power of history's highest wage rates. But it does not, we think, accord with the facts.

Few employers are insane enough to suppose that they can prosper by torpedoing American living standards. Most employers have sense enough to know that employes are also customers; that low wages cannot be a firm foundation for high profits; that inflation depresses real profits as well as real wages.

And, probably, there never was less danger than there is today that the speed-up—the inhuman driving of workers to the limit of their endurance—will be established in industry. Russia is the only place where the speed-up is encouraged by national policy. A greater danger, we think, is that labor will fail to recognize and act on the truthful principle that wealth must be created before it can be distributed and enjoyed. This last year's efforts to push wage rates upward were understandable. But to the extent that they prevented production of goods and services they defeated their own purpose.

To the extent that the hourly wage increases gained have not been accompanied by corresponding increases in productivity per man per hour they have lowered the general standard of living, not raised it.

That workers and employers alike may realize more clearly in the coming year that their true interests are identical, was our wish for America, as the curtain descended on Labor Day this year. They have everything to lose by fighting each other, and already they have lost much.

The nation's store of wealth can be vastly increased. That opportunity is still theirs. If fairly distributed, it can mean prosperity for all. If they work together in loyal partnership, a happier story can be told on Labor Day next year.

Summer brought the urge to hit the open road—which we usually found closed for repairs.

Free Speech Their Right, Women Contend

A police lieutenant in Blue Island, Ill., put a 30-second limit on telephone calls made by wives to their husbands on the force, and was amazed when the wives swamped him with protests. He should have known better.

More than the right to say what they please, Americans cherish the right to talk as long as they please on certain occasions. These occasions include telephone calls with at least one woman involved, after-dinner speeches, speeches in legislative halls, and accounts of vacations.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A SPLASHING HEART

THE heart occupies a choice site within the body. This is not to be marveled at when we consider the importance of the structure. In addition to being surrounded by the bony framework of the chest, the lung tissue also protects it to a lesser degree.

As a further precaution the organ is incased in the pericardium, a thin walled sac. This membrane affords considerable freedom of action by separating the cardiac apparatus from the lungs and nearby vessels. Moreover, it serves as a barrier to disease, otherwise organisms in the breathing tract might have easy access to the heart muscle.

Inflammation of the structure is known as "pericarditis." The condition occurs more frequently than we suspect as it is prone to develop with many heart afflictions, particularly rheumatic fever and coronary thrombosis. These maladies assume greater prominence and, therefore, steal the show. Then, too, symptoms of involvement of this part of the organ seldom appear and the sufferer is none the wiser. Now and then the disorder arises during the course of pneumonia, influenza, tonsillitis, or tuberculosis.

The bout can be compared to infection in the nose. The membranes become red and inflamed, and the discharge escapes thru the nasal passages. By contrast, exit from the pericardium is not possible because it has no openings. In the majority of cases, little fluid forms and, as healing takes place, the material is absorbed into the system. The situation is different, however, when the secretions are excessive or puslike in character. As a rule, the episode is painless unless infection extends to the diaphragm. In these circumstances, discomfort is usually felt during inspiration and resembles the "stitch in the side" of pleurisy.

As the exudate gathers and the walls stretch, the heart can be visualized as beating within a pouch filled with liquid. Occasionally, even the splashing can be heard. There is a limit to the amount that can collect for the process tends to impede the pumping action. Furthermore, the fluid presses on the arteries and the veins coming and going from the organ, causing weakness, faintness, and breathelessness. The blood traveling from the brain has difficulty in entering, resulting in distention of the veins in the neck. The circulation from the abdomen and legs is also obstructed and in consequence the liver, abdomen, and ankles become swollen and engorged.

Sometimes there is pressure on the lungs and bronchial tubes leading to hoarseness, irritating cough, or shortness of breath. When distress is severe, most victims must sit upright or lean forward slightly in order to breathe with ease.

Removal of the confined fluid or pus is necessary if relief is to be expected. Sometimes surgery is demanded and an opening is made in the chest wall to allow the purulent secretion to drain freely. The sulfas and penicillin have been helpful in eradicating the invaders especially when the pneumococcus, staphysponsible, lococcus, or streptococcus is re-

In some instances, scar tissue follows convalescence. In time these bands tighten and may actually squeeze the heart and the large vessels in somewhat the same manner as did the accumulated material. An operation can now be performed in which the fiberous bands and thickened tissues are loosened thus relieving constriction.

RATS AND MICE

D. L. writes: Can mice carry the same diseases as rats?

REPLY

In the laboratory mice and rats are frequently used interchangeably in inoculating infections. In their wild state on the other hand the mouse is a vegetarian and the rat is carnivorous and cannibalistic. To date we know of only one disease which mice can transmit to human beings. Many more are ascribed to rats.

CURVED NAILS

J. S. writes: What causes spoon nails?

REPLY

The exact cause is obscure but heredity may be a factor as well as anemia, infection or persistent washing of the hands in strong alkalis. Sometimes the condition is seen in those suffering from wasting or debilitating diseases.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I gathered up my slugs and hopped into my car when I heard of the new "gaseteria" that opened in Hollywood. I found the new vending machine to be a great improvement over the old-fashioned gas station. You drive up, drop in some coins, and fill your own tank ... It's a sort of high-octane jukebox, and really very convenient. Now there's no one to keep me from squeezing the hose.

The new vending machine is a very complicated piece of mechanism that does everything but screw the cap back on the tank. No kidding. It even gives back change by filling your cigarette lighter! As for the dealer, it gives him more time for other activities .. he now sits out back with an income-tax collector selling used cars.

The first day the gaseteria opened it caused quite a bit of excitement among the local citizens ... a guy drank three quarts of the stuff before he found out it wasn't soda-pop. No kidding, now when I blow my soup ... voila ... flaming pudding! Looks as if everything would be served up in machines soon and I understand one company is putting out a vending machine that will serve a six-course meal complete with fingerbowl for six-bits. It will be confusing, though ... they plan to call it the "gaseteria" also.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Interior Department Will Cut Red Tape; Will Make Alaska Tourists' Paradise; Statehood For Territory Being Urged, J. A. Krug Says

By J. A. KRUG

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by several distinguished guest columnists — today's by J. A. "Cap" Krug, secretary of the interior, who has just returned from an extensive survey of Alaska.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A few days ago, I was walking down the wooden sidewalk of the Indian village of Metlakatla, Alaska. On either side, the evergreen branches of spruce and hemlock tossed in a stiff breeze fresh off the sea. In the distance rose mountain heights still bearing the snows of last winter. From the belfry of the white community church chimed the soft and solemn strains of "America" and later "America, the Beautiful."

It was an inspiring sight and sound. It made me proud to be an American and to have a part in the building of a great empire there in the nation's farthest north and farthest west.

Metlakatla was the last of a dozen Alaska communities visited on a trip which took me and some of my associates of the Interior Department 12,000 miles, half of it within the borders of the great territory of Alaska—an enormous and wonderful country. It is one-fifth as large as the United States.

Alaska is the land of promise. It is an unspoiled country of great opportunity. While it now has only about 85,000 inhabitants, very substantial growth and development lie just ahead. In fact, they are already under way.

Want Statehood

Right now, most Alaskans are thinking about statehood. On every hand we heard advocates of statehood. Nowhere did we hear opposition, although I was informed that some does exist.

The people of the territory are to vote October 8 on a referendum question: "Are you in favor of statehood for Alaska?" This is the first step. If the vote is favorable, as I judge it will be from the evidence of Alaskans' attitude, the territory's delegate to Congress will press statehood legislation at the next session. Alaska's present delegate, E. L. "Bob" Bartlett, is strong for statehood. So is Gov. Ernest Gruening. So am I. Only under statehood, I feel, will Alaska realize her great destiny.

Rep. Bob Poage, of Texas, has an answer. He believes Alaska should be at least three states. Then no one of them would be larger than Texas.

One of the most interesting places visited was Barrow. It is the farthest north settlement under the American flag, only 18 degrees of latitude from the pole. The 500 Eskimo inhabitants turned out en masse to greet us, and one of the pictures I will always carry with me is that of the entire village descending to the beach to see us off. Someone started singing the hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and soon every voice had joined in.

At the Eskimo meal which the people of the village spread for us, it was announced that a child which had been born that morning had been named Don Foster, after the head of the Alaska native service, who was a member of our party. Later I learned that the teacher and the minister had tried to get the parents to name the baby Julius after me, but they said "no." I don't blame them. My son is named "Jim."

Eskimo Hitchhiker

Fred Ipalook, secretary of the village council at Barrow and an outstanding Eskimo, had some business at Nome, which is weeks away overland. I invited him to come with us on the plane. As it happened, the Nome area was completely closed in by cloud and fog from the Bering Sea when we arrived overhead, so that we had to fly on to Anchorage. Fred had never been south of Nome. He had never seen a tree. He had never seen so many people as he saw at Fort Richardson and Anchorage.

The army flew Fred back to Barrow by way of Fairbanks, but he went home without ever conducting his business in Nome. "Next time," one of the Alaskan newspapers put it, "he will know better than to accept a ride with strangers."

Flying in Alaska is a principal business. The number of passenger-miles flown there in a year is 30 times as many, per capita, as in the states.

I have the utmost respect for the bush pilots who have pioneered aviation in that vast, uncharted country. I flew with them in southeast Alaska, where we had some calls to make at communities without airfields and where only float planes would serve. How they can find their way in rain and fog through the thousands of islands of the Alexander archipelago is a mystery to me.

The day Alaskan coastal and Ellis airlines flew us from Juneau to Sitka to Ketchikan, the storm clouds were riding the white caps of the Pacific. Even the Alaskan ducks and geese were sitting that one out, but the pilots flew us safely right through it. They fly anywhere, any time. In that part of Alaska the saying is that the only time the planes are grounded is when the snow is so thick the pilots can't see their propellers.

Alaskan Chaff

Some interesting facts about Alaska: It is as far from the easternmost to the westernmost points of Alaska as from Charleston, S. C., to Los Angeles and as far from the northernmost to the southernmost as from Lake of the Woods Canada to the Mexican border . . . Japonski island, opposite Sitka, is believed locally to have been so named by the Russians because it was to be the original landing place for Japanese which Gov. Alexander Baranof, first governor of Russian America, planned to import as slave labor. . . . During the Russian occupation, Sitka was the largest and most prosperous settlement on the entire Pacific coast of North America.

All the real sealskin coats in the world originate in two small islands off the Alaskan coast—the Pribilofs. These islands have a population of approximately 470 Aleuts and 3,000,000 fur seals. The pelts of the latter at present market prices are worth about $87.50 apiece.

The spruce and hemlock forests of southeastern Alaska alone can produce in perpetuity almost 1,000,000 tons of sulphite pulp a year, which is about one-fourth of the present newsprint consumption in the United States . . . The temperature in the Yukon valley on the Arctic circle reaches as high as 100 degrees in mid-summer . . . The Aleuts of the Aleutian islands and the Alaskan peninsula are communicants of the Russian orthodox faith. Most of these people are as much Russian as Aboriginals in blood. Fairbanks had a Russian population of several hundreds all during the war when this was the point at which lend-lease planes were transferred to be flown on to the U.S.S.R. . . . There are many points of contact between Alaska and Russia. Russia's big Diomede island is but two miles distant from our little Diomede island in the middle of Bering Strait. The Eskimo inhabitants of the two islands have exchanged family visits for many years and have, until recently, intermarried.

Tourist Paradise

One of the great opportunities in Alaska is the tourist industry. In Alaska you will see the most magnificent scenery in the world. It is everywhere in Alaska. One of the objectives of my department in the immediate future will be to cut away the red tape now involved in establishing tourist facilities in the territory. For hundreds of thousands—perhaps millions—of Americans will be wanting to see the wonders of our last great frontier. I recommend a trip to Alaska for anyone who is feeling despondent about the world. It will renew his faith in the pioneer hardihood of our nation and open vistas ahead.

Real Men Are So Few; One Died Only Days Ago

By SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL

A man died the other day. As real men are so few, when one dies, it should be reported. This was the kind of man Josiah G. Holland wrote of: "God give us men—whom the spoils of office cannot buy—men who possess opinions and a will—men who have honor—men who will not lie.

The public is cynical these days—cynical about platform pledges and candidates' promises. Statements of the highest officials, and even "government statistics," are subject to heavy discount. "Who gets what, when, and how" is the key to political success. "Nobody shoots Santa Claus" has become a proverb. In such a time it is worth our note when a man dies.

I refer to U. S. Supreme Court Justice McReynolds, the last of the old guard of McReynolds, Butler, Sutherland and Vandevanter.

When these men refused to sanction the repudiation of the solemn promise of the United States to pay its bonds in gold, McReynolds wrote that the "impending legal and moral chaos is appalling." Was he right? Does anyone really believe that the debt will ever be paid? Does anyone know what the law is on any federal matter? Does any business man know? Justice Roberts has said Supreme Court decisions were no better than railroad tickets, good for the day and trip only.

"Moral Chaos" Deepened

The "moral chaos" McReynolds foresaw has deepened until the federal government prints money to pay its bills without any shame whatever—a snide and cowardly [illegible] which millions of little [illegible]re paying for as their own [illegible]nt filches the value out of the[illegible]ings.

Y[illegible]is man wrote notable decisions upholding civil rights and was perhaps the most relentless and successful prosecutor of big business violators of our anti-trust laws we have ever had.

The crime of McReynolds was that he held unflinchingly that it is not the business of Congress or the President or the Supreme Court to amend the Constitution. That is the people's business. Because he fought to protect the rights of the people in their great charter he was smeared, by the breast-beaters for "democracy," as a "Tory" and "reactionary."

Well, the job of changing the Constitution has been done—but the fruit, bitter or sweet, remains to be gathered.

A bachelor, austere in manner, he "adopted" 33 child victims of the blitzkrieg in England. McReynolds was denounced by "humanitarians," but if some of them in high places dug into their own pockets for such purposes, it has not been reported.

Protector of All Classes

"It is my obligation as a judge," he said, "to protect the backwoodsman in the hills of Georgia as well as the man of wealth on Fifth Avenue, and the man in the mansion as well as the dweller in a cottage." Not a bad ideal for a judge. Do we sleep sounder as politicians and pressure groups make public life intolerable for such men?

Vilified as few men have been in our times, charged with "hardening of the judicial arteries," he stood by his principles to the end. At the last, he stood alone.

But no one will charge him with the political smut that has tarnished and corroded our public affairs, that has made us a nation of cynics.

Yes, occasionally this Republic breeds a man. Count them. It is an easy task.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—If you are an employer and happen to have a labor relations director or supervisor handling labor matters for you, don't by any means let him go anywhere near a bar, restaurant, movie house grocery store drug store, soda fountain or any other place where employes may congregate.

For the National Labor Relations Board, by a vote of 2 members to 1, has just ruled that it is an "unfair labor practice" and violates the Wagner law for a labor relations director to visit a bar where employes may be congregating. And since not all union members frequent places where hard liquor is sold, the ban presumably extends to soft drink establishments as well.

It doesn't matter that the gathering places are public and union members presumably do not talk about their secrets in public. But, unfortunately, such union members cannot take care of themselves and must come under the protection of the Labor Relations Board, and their remarks or comments must be safeguarded from being overheard. Maybe bars hereafter will have to install soundproof walls and forbid the entry of employers or labor relations directors, or operate some sort of segregation scheme. Maybe the Labor Relations Board soon will have some suggestions along this line. It merely says for the present, in the Clark case just decided, that to visit a bar under the circumstances outlined is a violation of the Wagner law. The board majority says:

What the Board Majority Said

"The trial examiner found that Thomas L. Moody, the respondent's (employer's) labor relations director, engaged in surveillance by visiting a drinking establishment on several occasions for the specific purpose of overhearing employe conversations regarding the organizational campaign of the CIO. We agree that such conduct is violative of the act. It is not a defense to such action, as the respondent (employer) asserts, that the employes may have been without knowledge of the surveillance. 'Any real surveillance by the employer over the union activity of employes, whether frankly open or carefully concealed falls under the prohibitions of the act' (NLRB vs. Collins and Aikman)."

What Is "Surveillance"?

The question of what is or is not "surveillance" is here open to some debate. Spying by using stooges at union meetings is forbidden surveillance, but presence in a barroom where union members congregate publicly seems hardly on a par with spying inside a union meeting. The trial examiner, whose findings have been adopted in the Clark case by a majority of the board, says:

"With respects to Moody's testimony, concerning his visits to the bars, the undersigned (trial examiner) finds, particularly in view of Moody's express admission as to the purpose of his visits, that Moody's conduct constituted surveillance by the respondent (employer) of union activities and of the union activities of its employes. This finding is not affected by the fact that Moody also testified that his object was not to find out what employes were interested in the union but rather to learn what was being said in the campaign. It is obvious that campaign statements of employes cannot be divorced from organizational activities and that what employes say under such circumstances will reflect their attitude toward and even membership in a union. The employer's defense that there is no showing that any of the employes had any knowledge that Moody overheard any of their conversations, or that any employes were discriminated against as a result thereof, is clearly without merit. Moody's conduct was nonetheless an interference with the employes' rights to self organization."

Board Ruled It Interference

Thus it apepars that, even though no discrimination was practiced and even though the presence of the labor director was not observed by the union men so that no possible charge of intimidation could be lodged against him, the board says it was an "interference" with the employes' "rights to self organization" for the labor relations director to have visited the bar in question.

The foregoing is related in detail so as to report the extent to which the National Labor Relations Board interprets the Wagner law as superseding the Constitution and all personal liberties of the citizen. The board now rules, in effect, that if an employer does anything which has hitherto been protected by the Constitution and Supreme Court decisions and if it conflicts with the Wagner Labor Relations Law—then the later law supersedes everything. The Constitution apparently must give way to the Wagner law.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

There's a legend around Broadway that I know a lot about the stock market, that I get inside information. I don't know how the story started. What I know about Wall Street you can find in Gypsy Mary's Dream Book. But when I refuse to predict the future of DuPont or U. S. Rubber, my friends denounce me for holding out on them. "If that Rose would open up," they whisper, "we could all retire." Lucky for them I don't—they'd end up selling pencils.

Billy Rose

But you can't kill a legend by denying it. Only this morning I got a telephone call from California. It was the head of one of the big Hollywood studios. Actors all over the world shake at the sound of his name. I shall call him Maxwell B. Maxwell.

"Billy Boy," he said, "thank God I found you in. This break in the market has got us all walking into lampposts. There are twenty people in my office and they're all going crazy. I said: 'What's the use of guessing when I can get on the phone and talk to the man who knows. What do you think of the oils, pal?'"

"Why ask me, Max?" I protested. "I don't know anything about oil stocks."

"You can't refuse me," he pleaded. "There's important money involved." He sounded as if he were talking to a doctor about an operation on his child.

What could I do? "Maxwell," I said, "the country is basically sound."

His sigh of relief made three thousand miles of wire tremble. Suddenly I realized that big stacks of blue chips would be bet on my silly say-so. "Hold it, Max," I said. "What's the use of guessing when I can get on the phone and talk to the man who knows?"

"Who do you mean?" he whispered.

"I can't mention his name on the phone," I said. "Never know who's listening. Call you back."

I hung up and phoned a friend of mine in Washington. I shall call him Horace B. Horace. He is so influential in government he never goes to a movie without leaving his name at the box office, so the President can get him if he needs him.

"Horace," I said, "I'm glad I found you in. This break in the market has everybody worried. Just between us, what do you think of the oil stocks?"

"Billy," he said, "I honestly don't know."

"Please, Horace," I said, "don't be coy with me. Real money is at stake."

"Well, Billy," he said, "I think conditions are fundamentally OK. But if it means that much to you, I can get on the phone and talk to the man who knows. I'll call you back."

Fifteen minutes later Horace was on the phone again. "You can sleep easy," he said. "I just talked to the one man in America who knows. He said the country is basically sound."

"Thanks a million," I said. "Horace, I know I'm out of line asking this, but I wonder if you'd mind telling me whom you talked to."

"Ssh," said Horace, "these wires may be tapped."

But I was desperate. "Please tell me," I pleaded. "On my honor, I won't ever tell a soul."

There was a pause, and then Horace said, "All right, if it's that important. It was Maxwell B. Maxwell of Hollywood."

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

For years I have formed the habit of keeping a diary during the summer months, for it is then that I am away from the routine of business, and so to speak, upon a mission of discovery and invention. Then it is that no days seem dull nor uninteresting. This period, therefore becomes a sort of repair time for the mind and body.

Another thing about keeping a diary—at the end of the day, when you jot things down, you often discover how very little you accomplished! But if you have learned at least one thing during the day that you never knew before, it has not been wholly lived in vain. I believe it a good thing to determine, at the beginning of a day, to discover at least one new thing, idea, or fact, that you never had in your mind before.

I discovered something today—that if you speak crossly to an animal, he reacts the same as a human being, proving our kinship to him. The mind, or human heart, or whatever it is that registers our emotions and reactions, is a most sensitive affair. It's like the reaction of an intricate piece of machinery, let the simplest part of its construction be tampered with, or get out of order, and the entire machine is at once affected. An unkind, or bidder word spoken, travels the length and breadth of the human body—and perhaps to the soul as well.

Out in nature, the mere discovery of a new flower that you have never seen before, or of an animal, or bird, is something to stir the emotions. In my wanderings I recently picked up a white piece of quartz with faint traces of gold in it! I placed it upon my desk as a paper weight to remind me of the glory of discovery.

It was a happy day when a friend suggested that I read Lafcadio Hearn's fine talks on literature, and another when a friend told me to read George Gissing and Alexander Smith. I read them, and now re-read them—with pleasure and profit mentally and spiritually, and praise those who led me to their discovery.

Adding to the line of the unknown author's: "Count that day lost, whose low, descending sun, views from thy hand no worthy" discovery gained!

Luke Woman Gets Partial Divorce

In a decree signed in Circuit Court by Chief Judge William A. Huster, a partial divorce has been granted Mrs. Margaret Eloise Wolfe from George Bernard Wolfe, Luke.

Morgan C. Haris, counsel for the complainant, said they were married February 25, 1944, and lived together until last April 28, when Wolfe ordered his wife out of then home. Edward J. Ryan represented Wolfe.

Mrs. Helen V. Ricker, this city, filed a divorce action against Richard H. Ricker on undisclosed grounds. Clarence Shutter is her attorney, and Morris Baron represents the husband.

Virgil L. Maphis has filed suit for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Georgianna G. Maphis. His attorney, Edward J. Ryan, said they were married August 4, 1945, in Winchester, Va., and lived together until July 25 this year. Maphis asks that his wife be allowed to use her maiden name, Georgianna Fratt.

A Chicago woman got a divorce because her husband refused to teach her how to play golf. No rough stuff for him!

Vet Asks Release From County Jail

Seeking his release from the County Jail, Robert L. Shipe, young Cumberland veteran of World War II who is held for action of the October grand jury on two charges yesterday filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition was filed in Circuit Court by Mrs. Helen Shipe, his mother and next friend.

Shipe was arrested two months ago on a charge of bigamy and released under bond for grand jury action. Later he was arrested again, on a charge of assaulting a young girl in an automobile, and was committed to the jail.

Julius E. Schindler, Shipe's attorney, said he should be released and turned over to the Veterans' Hospital at Perry Point. Schindler who said Shipe served in the Army from November 11, 1943, to August 25, 1945, and then re-enlisted last December 11 and was honorably discharged last April 18, alleged he is a "mental case."

A statement signed by Dr. Eugene Kester, local physician, was attached to the petition and said that the doctor had treated him for about two years. He said Shipe was "irresponsible," his conduct "irrational" and that he should be placed in an institution for treatment.

Chief Judge William A. Huster will conduct a hearing on the petition Thursday afternoon.

The United States has vetoed Tito.

Vet Asks Release From County Jail

Seeking his release from the County Jail, Robert L. Shipe, young Cumberland veteran of World War II who is held for action of the October grand jury on two charges yesterday filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition was filed in Circuit Court by Mrs. Helen Shipe, his mother and next friend.

Shipe was arrested two months ago on a charge of bigamy and released under bond for grand jury action. Later he was arrested again, on a charge of assaulting a young girl in an automobile, and was committed to the jail.

Julius E. Schindler, Shipe's attorney, said he should be released and turned over to the Veterans' Hospital at Perry Point. Schindler who said Shipe served in the Army from November 11, 1943, to August 25, 1945, and then re-enlisted last December 11 and was honorably discharged last April 18, alleged he is a "mental case."

A statement signed by Dr. Eugene Kester, local physician, was attached to the petition and said that the doctor had treated him for about two years. He said Shipe was "irresponsible," his conduct "irrational" and that he should be placed in an institution for treatment.

Chief Judge William A. Huster will conduct a hearing on the petition Thursday afternoon.

The United States has vetoed Tito.

Dr. Simpson Honored By Fraternal Order

Dr. Myron L. Simpson, 1112 Bedford road, was honored at the 36th annual national encampment of Grand Council of the Pi Christian Fraternal Orders during a 10-day session near Clarksburg, W. Va. He was re-elected for his 11th term as chancellor of the Kappa Sigma Pi fraternity and he was also one of the recipients of the honorary of Fourth Degree of the Pi Christian Fraternal Orders.

The Kappa Sigma Pi is an interdenominational, international organization for Christian young people, operating in the churches, schools and YMCAs. Three chapters have been established in Cumberland, at Central YMCA, in the Centre Street Methodist and Southminster Presbyterian Churches.

Judge Guarantees Truth Of Fish Story

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—This a whale of a fish story, but District Judge Arthur J. Sullivan testified to its accuracy.

Fishing off Block Island, the judge, J. T. O'Connell and Robert Jackson, all of Newport, landed a 300-pound broadbilled swordfish and four tuna in slightly over an hour.

On the way back to port, they encountered a 60-foot whale, but "we just skirted her," said Judge Sullivan.

Former LaSalle Student Dies In Russian Prison

Word has been received by Mrs. Pauline Franchi, 215 Hay street, that her son, Dr. John Franchi, died in a Siberian prison camp in 1943 after being taken prisoner by the Russians. A liberated Italian prisoner who returned to Pisa informed Dr. Franchi's wife that her husband was dead.

Dr. Franchi attended LaSalle High School here for three years after being brought to this country at the age of one. His father, the late Benevenuto Franchi, was a prominent wholesale and produce dealer in Cumberland prior to his death in 1931.

Franchi returned to Italy to complete his education and received his medical degree from the University of Pisa. The war interrupted the practice he had built up in Pisa and he was sent to the Russian front with an Italian artillery unit.

Dr. Taylor, who has held numerous teaching positions in schools and colleges since 1923, was graduated from Illinois College and received her Master's Degree at the University of Illinois and a doctorate from the same college.

Listed among the schools in which she has instructed are the University of Illinois, University of South Carolina and the University of Syracuse. During the war she was associated with the Army ASTP program and taught mathematics to Army Air Force Cadets.

Judge Guarantees Truth Of Fish Story

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—This a whale of a fish story, but District Judge Arthur J. Sullivan testified to its accuracy.

Fishing off Block Island, the judge, J. T. O'Connell and Robert Jackson, all of Newport, landed a 300-pound broadbilled swordfish and four tuna in slightly over an hour.

On the way back to port, they encountered a 60-foot whale, but "we just skirted her," said Judge Sullivan.

Former LaSalle Student Dies In Russian Prison

Word has been received by Mrs. Pauline Franchi, 215 Hay street, that her son, Dr. John Franchi, died in a Siberian prison camp in 1943 after being taken prisoner by the Russians. A liberated Italian prisoner who returned to Pisa informed Dr. Franchi's wife that her husband was dead.

Dr. Franchi attended LaSalle High School here for three years after being brought to this country at the age of one. His father, the late Benevenuto Franchi, was a prominent wholesale and produce dealer in Cumberland prior to his death in 1931.

Franchi returned to Italy to complete his education and received his medical degree from the University of Pisa. The war interrupted the practice he had built up in Pisa and he was sent to the Russian front with an Italian artillery unit.

Listed among the schools in which she has instructed are the University of Illinois, University of South Carolina and the University of Syracuse. During the war she was associated with the Army ASTP program and taught mathematics to Army Air Force Cadets.

Quiz For Marylanders

THINGS YOU MAY NOT HAVE KNOWN TILL NOW

By QUENTIN HOWE

Answer to Question 1:

Maryland has had many popular horses. Perhaps the most popular Maryland steeplechase horse was little Billy Barton owned by Mr. Howard Bruce. First a race horse then a hunter, he was put to steeplechasing and after winning the Maryland Hunt Cup, shipped to England to try for the Grand National. Challedon, bred in Frederick County and owned by Mr. William Brann, holds a high place in Maryland affection as a great runner on the flat.

Answer to Question 2:

It is the people of Maryland —you and your friends and neighbors — who make racing possible in Maryland. The Maryland racing associations, by offering fine purses that are equal to or better than the purses offered in the 20 other States, afford the attraction which brings the outstanding horses.

Answer to Question 3:

Pimlico has no secrets from the Maryland public. Each year Pimlico files its financial report with the Maryland Racing Commission, a copy of which any Maryland citizen can obtain by writing the Maryland Racing Commission, Maryland Trust Bldg., Baltimore 2, Maryland. Out of every dollar that Pimlico takes in 34 cents goes to the State and Federal government, 22 cents goes to the horsemen, 23 cents goes to operate Pimlico, most of which is wages, and of the money left less than 2 per cent goes to the owners of Pimlico. No racing association in Maryland offers the public higher class racing at less profit to themselves than the Maryland Jockey Club at Pimlico. (17)

Conferences Planned On Smoke Ordinance

Both railroad officials and workmen will be given a chance to express their views before final action is taken on Cumberland's smoke control ordinance, which would compel railroad locomotives used within the city limits to have over fire jets installed, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The mayor said he has asked the Shopcraft Federation to set a meeting time for this week and that another conference will be arranged with officials of both the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway.

The ordinance as amended makes the railroads responsible for enforcement as a clause providing a fine for firemen who cause excess smoke has been eliminated.

Seize Enough Drugs To Knock Out City

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Since the start of the year, Queensland State customs officers have seized enough drugs, they estimate, to put to sleep the 350,000 population of this state capital city. They have found narcotics hidden in cameras, oil wells, logs, clothing, personal effects and even false teeth.

Conferences Planned On Smoke Ordinance

Both railroad officials and workmen will be given a chance to express their views before final action is taken on Cumberland's smoke control ordinance, which would compel railroad locomotives used within the city limits to have over fire jets installed, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The mayor said he has asked the Shopcraft Federation to set a meeting time for this week and that another conference will be arranged with officials of both the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway.

The ordinance as amended makes the railroads responsible for enforcement as a clause providing a fine for firemen who cause excess smoke has been eliminated.

HIGHER INSURANCE RATES APPROVED

Lawrence E. Ensor, State Insurance Commissioner, reports that increases in automobile liability rates averaging 10 per cent on bodily injury and 29 per cent on property damage liability have been approved by the State Insurance Department.

The new rates were effective yesterday and apply to policies written on and after that date.

Ensor said they reflect these two factors:

Continued unfavorable loss experience because of the rising accident frequency since gasoline rationing was lifted last August.

Higher average cost of claim settlements.

It has been stated, he added, that the average age of automobiles in use is more than eight years.

Rates were raised in a majority of the states last May 27, with the percentage of increases generally higher than those in Maryland, Ensor continued.

Notwithstanding the new increases the scale of public liability premiums is substantially lower than at one time, he pointed out.

Property damage premiums will range from $9.50 to $14 as compared with $16 in effect on January 1 1927, he explained.

Many Hunters Ruin Buck By Showing It Off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The deer hunter who rides home with his buck strapped to the automobile hood or fender is a foolhardy show-off in the opinion of California fish and game officials.

They estimate that in California at least one-fourth of all deer meat taken spoils, and exposing the venison to heat is one principal cause. Deer should be skinned in camp and wrapped in blankets, the officials insist.

Southern Arkansas has a reserve of 400,000,000 barrels of petroleum, according to estimates.

Life Incomes at Retirement for General Electric Employees

Over 100,000 men and women already enrolled under new hundred-million-dollar General Electric Pension Program.

On July 10, 1946 General Electric announced an expanded pension program to give every employee at retirement the steady income everyone dreams of—but few ever manage to secure.

For the average employee this will mean a retirement income several times as large as the annuity he could ordinarily buy. Income at retirement, when added to Social Security payments, will amount to about 50% of average pay for the employee who has spent his working years with General Electric.

$100,000,000 to Start Plan

This plan provides a pension for the years already worked, at no cost to employees. For this, the company pays the entire cost, estimated at more than $100,000,000.

Thus every employee with over a year's service has a good start on his pension at retirement—at no cost to him. The longer he has worked, the bigger the sum.

To increase this retirement income as the years go on, employees and the company will jointly contribute to the fund. On the average, about two-thirds of future costs will be paid by the company.

Every Employee Eligible

Pensions are not new at General Electric. Retirement plans were begun as early as 1912. Over 40,000 employees now on the payroll are already covered. The new plan brings pensions within reach of 100,000 more. Every employee is eligible the day he completes one full year of service.

About 90% of eligible G-E men and women have already signed up for Retirement Income

Within eight weeks of the new pension program's announcement, some of General Electric's nearly one hundred plants in about seventy-five communities report the following enrollment:

Bridgeport, Conn.	90.8%
Ontario, Cal.	92.5%
Erie, Pa.	96.8%
Lynn, Mass.	97.0%
Schenectady, N. Y.	95.0%
Pittsfield, Mass.	94.0%
Philadelphia, Pa.	96.6%
New Kensington, Pa.	97.8%
Lowell, Mass.	96.4%
Cleveland, Ohio	91.1%

General Electric's Objectives

Three objectives of General Electric are worth repeating:

For the public, new and better products at the fairest price that General Electric research and engineering can achieve.

For General Electric men and women, a better place to work—fair wages, steadiest possible employment, and "job dividends" for work well done.

For a quarter of a million owners, a fair return on the millions in savings they have invested.

"Job Dividends"

General Electric's "job dividends"—those extras that G-E employees get in addition to wages—now include among other things, pensions at retirement, insurance, vacations with pay, awards for achievement, etc. On such "job dividends" General Electric spent more than $35,000,000 for the year 1945.

This new pension program, from General Electric's point of view, is another way to encourage the capable and efficient men and women who aid in the company's success.

With their help, even greater benefits can be produced for all.

For additional details of the plan, those interested may write for the booklet, "General Electric Pension Plan." Address General Electric, Schenectady, N. Y.

Many Hunters Ruin Buck By Showing It Off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The deer hunter who rides home with his buck strapped to the automobile hood or fender is a foolhardy show-off in the opinion of California fish and game officials.

They estimate that in California at least one-fourth of all deer meat taken spoils, and exposing the venison to heat is one principal cause. Deer should be skinned in camp and wrapped in blankets, the officials insist.

Southern Arkansas has a reserve of 400,000,000 barrels of petroleum, according to estimates.

Life Incomes at Retirement for General Electric Employees

Over 100,000 men and women already enrolled under new hundred-million-dollar General Electric Pension Program.

On July 10, 1946 General Electric announced an expanded pension program to give every employee at retirement the steady income everyone dreams of—but few ever manage to secure.

For the average employee this will mean a retirement income several times as large as the annuity he could ordinarily buy. Income at retirement, when added to Social Security payments, will amount to about 50% of average pay for the employee who has spent his working years with General Electric.

$100,000,000 to Start Plan

This plan provides a pension for the years already worked, at no cost to employees. For this, the company pays the entire cost, estimated at more than $100,000,000.

Thus every employee with over a year's service has a good start on his pension at retirement—at no cost to him. The longer he has worked, the bigger the sum.

To increase this retirement income as the years go on, employees and the company will jointly contribute to the fund. On the average, about two-thirds of future costs will be paid by the company.

Every Employee Eligible

Pensions are not new at General Electric. Retirement plans were begun as early as 1912. Over 40,000 employees now on the payroll are already covered. The new plan brings pensions within reach of 100,000 more. Every employee is eligible the day he completes one full year of service.

About 90% of eligible G-E men and women have already signed up for Retirement Income

Within eight weeks of the new pension program's announcement, some of General Electric's nearly one hundred plants in about seventy-five communities report the following enrollment:

Bridgeport, Conn.	90.8%
Ontario, Cal.	92.5%
Erie, Pa.	96.8%
Lynn, Mass.	97.0%
Schenectady, N. Y.	95.0%
Pittsfield, Mass.	94.0%
Philadelphia, Pa.	96.6%
New Kensington, Pa.	97.8%
Lowell, Mass.	96.4%
Cleveland, Ohio	91.1%

General Electric's Objectives

Three objectives of General Electric are worth repeating:

For the public, new and better products at the fairest price that General Electric research and engineering can achieve.

For General Electric men and women, a better place to work—fair wages, steadiest possible employment, and "job dividends" for work well done.

For a quarter of a million owners, a fair return on the millions in savings they have invested.

"Job Dividends"

General Electric's "job dividends"—those extras that G-E employees get in addition to wages—now include among other things, pensions at retirement, insurance, vacations with pay, awards for achievement, etc. On such "job dividends" General Electric spent more than $35,000,000 for the year 1945.

This new pension program, from General Electric's point of view, is another way to encourage the capable and efficient men and women who aid in the company's success.

With their help, even greater benefits can be produced for all.

SALUTE TO SIZE 46!

I bumped into her in the market the other day. We were both reaching for the same head of cabbage.

Nothing much to look at. You know the type. Big hunk of woman. Somewhere in her fifties. Clean, wrinkled skin with no mascara or lipstick to help it along—just soap and water and good nature. Gray hair bunched in a bun. Specs—old fashioned ones—none of your glamour lenses. And a size 46 dress that would have done quite nicely on the Goddess of Liberty.

There she was, doing the day's marketing for her old man and heaven knows how many kids and grandchildren. Probably been up since 6:30 scrubbing and cooking for the outfit. Helping get the kids off to school. Smoothing out a lot of morning-after snarls. Keeping a home going somewhere on a budget that shrinks daily but with grit and good humor that never give out.

She smiled at me. I smiled at her and let her have the cabbage. And something in my heart moved deep.

For here I knew was one who had done as much to hold this nation together during the last black years as any soldier on an invasion beach.

Size 46. You read plenty of eulogies to youth and quite a few to silvery haired octogenarians. But how often do we remember those who are in between youth and age—the tired clumsy valiant regiments who carried the flag in their own twenties and now are doing it for the second and third generation in spite of arthritis, bunions and gallstones.

Sometimes in spite of my ardent enthusiasm for youth I want to give it a collective kick in the shins. It thinks it's so hot. And it is of course. And I'm all for honoring its flaming courage. But let me tell you this bambinos—

Danger is never easy to take. But it's a darn sight easier to take when your bones are young and your blood is full of zingo than when you tangle with fate at 59 with a jumping dose of lumbago.

So you can take it that this is a tribute from one who knows whereof she speaks to all the old codgers who are battling on under handicaps that would give a 19-year-old the screaming meamies. To the old mother in laws and grandmothers who stay at home and tend the babies while the war brides swing a neat ankle at the nearest night spot.

To the old grandads who'd give what few years they have left to just one old time fishing trip yet who stick on the job and help the kid from Okinawa start his new business even though said grandpa's blood pressure is probably shot to hell.

There's a lot of high courage in this world that we don't recognize and we should be ashamed of ourselves.

There's a lot of good old fashioned Americanism that is still carrying the flag—even though the feet that carry it limp.

Maybe if I were a poet I could put this better—but as a poet I'm just a good plumber. So all I can say—but I say it with all my heart—is this—

God bless the size 46s! God honor the grand old guys who go on with false teeth and stiff knees to the everlasting glory of this America!

Common Sense Can BEAT Inflation

Today, more than ever, each of us has to do his part to beat inflation...consumers, producers, management and labor, and Government.

WHAT WE AS INDIVIDUALS CAN DO

During the war the people of this country, in overwhelming majority, knew it was good common sense to set aside part of their big wartime earnings for the future. We bought War Bonds by the tens of billions. We purchased additional life insurance. We put money in savings accounts. We paid off debts.

Many predicted that after the war the people would go on a spending spree. A few have, but most have used good common sense in handling their money.

Today it is more important than ever that we continue to use our money wisely—refrain from bidding up prices . . . buy only what is needed until goods are plentiful again . . . hold on to War Bonds . . . continue to put money aside for the family's future in government securities, life insurance, and savings accounts.

WHAT MANAGEMENT AND LABOR CAN DO

Both management and labor need to put their best efforts into the job of bringing about increased production. Americans are well aware that this country has the greatest capacity to produce goods of any nation in the world. We can produce far more in the future than we ever did before the war. Things now scarce will then become plentiful. When things are plentiful they are reasonably priced.

The productive genius, common sense and cooperation of the people are not by themselves enough to defeat inflation. These anti-inflationary efforts of the people must be backed up and encouraged by additional positive, practical steps on the part of those in authority in Government.

WHAT GOVERNMENT CAN DO

The life insurance companies strongly urge their policyholders, and the public generally, to encourage and support the following definite action by Government:

1. Balance the budget and continue debt reduction. Cut expenditures to less than income. Postpone projects that are not strictly essential in this critical period.
2. Take further monetary and fiscal action not only to keep the excess supply of money from expanding further but also to reduce it to a level more consistent with peacetime needs. The volume of money and credit now outstanding is a major factor in our inflationary problem.
3. Provide adequate incentives to individuals and investors, other than commercial banks, to use their savings and investment funds for the purchase of government securities.

The 71 million life insurance policyholders and their 27 million families have a stake in this country of ours. They want to see it financially sound because they have one common purpose—to provide financial security for themselves and families through their own sacrifice, saving and effort.

No thinking man or woman in this country wants inflation. Through the exercise of good common sense, by the people, by management and labor, and by the Government, the forces of inflation will be checked.

Dorothy M. Hoyle Becomes Bride Of G. R. Richefort

Married In First Methodist Church, Frostburg, By Rev. W. E. Holley

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Sept. 3—The marriage of Mrs. Dorothy Mont Hoyle, daughter of Mrs. Grace Mont, 167 Center street and George R. Richefort, North Bridge, Calif., was solemnized Saturday in First Methodist Church, with Rev. Watson E. Holley, pastor, officiating.

Preceding the ceremony, Prof. Joseph L. Derry, entertained with a 30 minute organ recital. Jack Hayes sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Harry R. McKenzie, Washington, was Mr. Rocheford's best man and Harry Mont, brother of the bride, Edward Bauman, Baltimore and Miller and William Bowen, Mt. Savage, were ushers.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Eagle Rock High School and a California art school, is employed in Washington by the army mapping service. A veteran of World War II, he went overseas August 31, 1942 and was stationed in England 18 months and in France until December, 1945.

His bride, a graduate of Mt. Savage High School and Frostburg State Teachers' College, attended University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University. She taught school in LaVale for several years.

Following a trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Washington, D. C.

Oren Crosby Dies

Oren M. Crosby, 44, son of Mrs. Eva Crosby, 11 Beall street, who has been ill for two months, was stricken with a heart attack on the street early this morning and died in the Central Fire Station where he was taken by city police officers.

An employe of the Consolidated Fuel Company, Crosby was a member of Frostburg Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose and the United Mine Workers of America. Besides his mother, he leaves his wife, the former Miss Nellie Fazenbaker; two children, Eva May Crosby, Baltimore, and Edward Crosby, Frostburg; two brothers, John and Ensley Crosby, Frostburg and two sisters, Mrs. Lester Jay, Lynchburg, Va., and Mrs. Stanley Larrimore, Baltimore.

Crosby was found in front of Shupe's drug store at 2 a. m., by Officers Richard Stroup and Lloyd S. Truly, who took him to the Central Fire Station where he failed to revive. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, issued a verdict attributing death to a heart attack.

After taking Crosby to the fire station, the police officers notified his brother, John Crosby. It is believed he was on his way home when he collapsed. He had been unable to work for the past two months because of a heart condition.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, 2:30 p. m., at the Durst funeral home with the Rev. J. H. Liesmann, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, officiating. Interment will be in Allegany Cemetery.

KEEPING UP WITH

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3—Let's stop those whispers behind the scenes that Ty Power and Annabella are separating. No matter how often they appear at Hollywood parties, hand in hand, looking supremely happy, someone gossips their marriage is about to break up. I hope my news this morning that Annabella has just signed a long term contract at 20th Century-Fox, Ty's studio, will quiet the Hollywood rumors. Darryl Zanuck would hardly have offered her this term deal at the studio where Ty is a top male favorite if the Power marriage wasn't okay—now would he?

Joan Crawford

'Tis said that Annabella is very good in "13 Rue Madeleine", the movie she made with James Cagney—the old Annabella with fire and sparkle again. Her first picture on this bright and shining new contract is "The Night the World Shook" with Richard Greene as her co-star. Gene Markey is the producer on the film and it's very interesting that it was Gene who first introduced Ty to Annabella.

Don't be surprized if Charles Einfeld releases the Enterprise Productions—and that means "Arch of Triumph" with Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer, "Maggie July" and "Wild Calendar" with Ginger Rogers, and Norma Shearer's comeback picture, and many others—through RKO. Charlie lunched with Peter Rathvon, head of RKO on Friday, and while I didn't have a dictagraph under their table, they talked business. Charlie has broken off relations with Universal-International, because his contract was with the old Universal company before Universal merged with Bill Goetz and Leo Spitz. The set-up is different; but the parting was amicable. August 30, Charlie says, is a big day for him. In 1945 on that date he walked out of Warners and on August 30 this year he walked out of Universal.

During the last few days Jack Warner and Humphrey Bogart's agent, Sam Jaffe, have been huddling over a new contract which will be the longest on record. It is to run 15 years. That's almost like an old age insurance. Jack is discussing the details with his brother Harry since it is such an unusual arrangement. Bogart's contract, according to Jaffe, has two years and two months to run. Don't you wish you were so important to your boss—that he wanted to give you a 15-year contract when you still had two years to go? Some of us will only be glad to live that long, much less get paid!

Dorothy Paley, the ex-Mrs. William, is in town and living in Irene Selznick's house while Irene occupies Dorothy's apartment in New York. I hear from that amazing Selznick gal that she's signed Susan Douglas for her first Broadway production, "Heart Song." Susan has just finished appearing in "The Private Affairs of Bel Ami" with that nasty man George Sanders. I say nasty because he's so unkind about women. He's so charming when he wants to be, but most of the time he prefers being hard to get. Susan, who survived working with George, came here from Broadway after she appeared in a revival of "He Who Gets Slapped."

Chatter in Hollywood: When Col. Jimmy Stewart was serving with the Army in England he was constantly in the company of Jeanne Stuart, British stage favorite. Some of the Britishers even though one day Miss Jeanne might change the spelling of her last name, but not the pronounciation. Well, she's in Hollywood now but Jimmy has only seen her twice. Their romance is cold. Miss Stuart was also seen a great deal with Lord Carnavon, after he divorced Tilly Losch. She's attractive and a close friend of Margot Grahame's.

Here, girls, is a tip for you if you're having a surgeon give you a new nose. Have a wax one made first and have it photographed—then you won't run the risk of having a bobbed nose that doesn't fit your face. Nanette Fabray, once reported engaged to Jack Warner, Jr. and the current star of the road company of "Bloomer Girl," had Jack Dawn, head of MGM make-up, sculp a new nose for her which matches her face perfectly. Now when she goes to Chicago for her nose operation, he'll design her proboscis from Jack Dawn's model. This has been done in many cases during the war.

With the mother-daughter "reconciliations" that have taken place recently between Gloria Swanson and her daughter and Marlene Dietrich and her daughter, there's still hope that the bitterest feud of them all, Gloria Vanderbilt Sr. and Jr. may someday be patched up. I happen to know that Gloria Swanson was heartbroken when she was not permitted to invite any of her old friends to be guests at her daughter's wedding. So it's wonderful to hear that Gloria II has been at her mother's bedside at the home of Dr. Richard Hoffman ever since her mother's automobile accident. As for Marlene's daughter, she has been devotion itself. I saw her throw her arms around Marlene and kiss her at a party! She's acting as her mother's secretary at the studio and has never been closer to her.

Joan Crawford, who has always been scared to death of a radio "mike" may be our next drama star of the ether—and here's why: Bing Crosby's deal to make records, or transcriptions, for Philco opens up the way for other stars to do the same and so "mike-frozen" Miss Crawford would be able to perform and do her stuff without benefit of audiences so terrifying to her. I get the tip that Joan has already been approached to wax a series of dramas.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Johnny (Tarzan) Weissmuller has offered his wife, Beryl Scott, $75,000 a year, if she'll go to Reno for a quick divorce. Johnny wants to marry again and the girl is Allene Gates, golf champion. . . . Loretta Young's pretty young sister, Georgianna, married to Ricardo Montelvan, is expecting her second baby. . . . Michael O'Shea received a letter from his wife saying she is filing for divorce as soon as their son returns from the U. S. army of occupation. That leaves Mike free to marry Virginia Mayo. . . . Greta Garbo is aboard the Gripsholm which docks Wednesday in New York. Lillian and Dorothy Gish are her fellow passengers. 'Tis said it's romance that is bringing the silent Swede back to the U. S. A. . . . Steve Cochran and Fay McKenzie are marrying in late September when he is legally free. Remember him? He was the heavyweight champ in Danny Kaye's "The Kid From Brooklyn." . . . Met Doris Warner Vidor and her director husband, Charlie Vidor. He denied he is suing Harry Cohn because he wants to join his father-in-law's company. He says Harry Cohn offered to let him go to Warners and he refused. . . . Mary McArthur, Helen Hayes and Charlie McArthur's pretty daughter, goes back to school for another year. That means that Mary's stage and screen career must wait. . . . What a surprise to meet a first Mrs. Rex Harrison, known as Mrs. Colette Harrison. She and her seven-year-old son are visiting in Hollywood. . . . June Havoc is sick again in a New York hospital. That gal is almost a permanent visitor there. . . . Viola Essen star of Ben Hecht's "Specter Of A Rose," marries Werner Gebouer, concert pianist, when her divorce from Richard Dean is final.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep
Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year
You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:
Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.
To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.
Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

PIN-WORMS GO! New Treatment Gets Real Results
People don't like to talk about Pin-Worm infection. Sometimes they are too embarrassed to mention the tormenting rectal itching. And in many cases they have not known of any effective way to deal with this pest that lives inside the human body.
Today, thanks to a special, medically recognized drug (gentian violet), a highly effective treatment has been made possible. This drug is the vital ingredient in P-W, the Pin-Worm tablets developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son.
The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms.
So if you suspect Pin-Worms in your child or yourself, ask your druggist for a package of JAYNE'S P-W right away, and follow the directions. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3—Let's stop those whispers behind the scenes that Ty Power and Annabella are separating. No matter how often they appear at Hollywood parties, hand in hand, looking supremely happy, someone gossips their marriage is about to break up. I hope my news this morning that Annabella has just signed a long term contract at 20th Century-Fox, Ty's studio, will quiet the Hollywood rumors. Darryl Zanuck would hardly have offered her this term deal at the studio where Ty is a top male favorite if the Power marriage wasn't okay—now would he?

Joan Crawford

'Tis said that Annabella is very good in "13 Rue Madeleine", the movie she made with James Cagney—the old Annabella with fire and sparkle again. Her first picture on this bright and shining new contract is "The Night the World Shook" with Richard Greene as her co-star. Gene Markey is the producer on the film and it's very interesting that it was Gene who first introduced Ty to Annabella.

Don't be surprised if Charles Einfeld releases the Enterprise Productions—and that means "Arch of Triumph" with Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer, "Maggie July" and "Wild Calendar" with Ginger Rogers and Norma Shearer's comeback picture, and many others—through RKO. New Average Low For Past Year Hit By Stocks In Sharp Selloff

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP) — In the sharpest selloff of the past 16 years, the stock market today hit a new average low for more than 12 months with losses for steels, motors, rails, industrials and utilities ranging from one to better than fourteen points. A few "thin" issues showed even wider relapses.

Offerings were so urgent that the ticker tape was late twice, once for an interval before midday and again for about 40 minutes in the fourth hour. While extreme setbacks were reduced here and there at the last, many pivotals ended at the day's bottom. Volume of 2,900,000 shares was the largest since Jan. 29 and compared with 1,160,000 Friday.

The slump was the most substantial for any session since June 16, 1930. The market was the second broadest on record, 1,075 issues registering against the top figure of 1,077 on May 28. Of these only 32 rose while 986 fell.

Conspicuous casualties were du-Pont, off 17 points at $180; Union Pacific 10½ at $131, Hiram Walker 10½ at $126, Allied Chemical 10 at 3170, Sante Fe 9¼ at $92.25, Southern Railway 8⅝ at $41.50, Chrysler 7⅞ at $97.50 and Youngstown Sheet 7¼ at $65.25.

In the Curb Aluminum Ltd. conceded 15½ points. Lesser decliners were Aluminum of America, Brown-Forman Distillers, Electric Bond and Share, Middle West corporation, Solar Aircraft, United Light and Textron. Turnover here was 870,000 shares versus 330,000 Friday.

Rail issues tumbled as much as eight points in the bond market in the fastest break in more than two years.

Obligations of carriers in reorganization took the heaviest licking as aggressive selling hammered prices down all along the line.

Volume piled up to $6,230,000, largest since May 1. This compared with $3,660,000 Friday.

Outstanding losers included Baltimore and Ohio Convertibles at 55, Central of New Jersey 55 at 25⅝, Alton 3s at 45, St. Paul Convertibles at 64½, Rock Island 4½s at 53½ and refunding 4s at 49.

Latin American obligations slipped fractions to more than a point. Greek bonds improved, and the part paid 7s up 2 at 16.

Chicago Grain Prices

CHICAGO, Sept. 3 (AP)—Oats, in demand in today's grain futures trading, withstood the influence of the slump in stocks to close ½ to 2⅛ higher, in active trading. Upturns in corn and wheat failed to hold. Wheat was nervous in a light trade and moved quickly in response to offerings. Corn reflected the weakness in the cash market.

Chicago Grain Prices

CHICAGO, Sept. 3 (AP)—Oats, in demand in today's grain futures trading, withstood the influence of the slump in stocks to close ½ to 2⅛ higher, in active trading. Commission houses sought the feed grain from the start of trading, and rallies were sustained, despite selling attributed to profit cashing.

Upturns in corn and wheat failed to hold. Wheat was nervous in a light trade and moved quickly in response to offerings. Corn reflected the weakness in the cash market.

Dodgers Reduce Cardinals' Lead By Beating Phils

Brooklyn Clips Redbirds' Edge To Two Games With 6-4 Win

BROOKLYN, Sept. 3. (AP)—Brooklyn clipped the idle St. Louis Cardinals' lead to two games tonight with a 6-4 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies in the final night game of the season at Ebbets Field.

Kirby Higbe needed relief help from Hank Behrman when the Phillies rallied to score three runs in the eighth inning, but the Maspeth, N. Y., rookie saved Higbe's 14th victory.

Stopping off at home for the first time since Aug. 18, the Brooks polished off the Phils and then headed for Boston, where they will conclude their tour of the circuit with a two-game set. Of their remaining 24 games, only five will be played on the road, all of them at Boston.

Tom Hughes, who had started only one game since June 8, was reached for a run in the first inning, and the Brooks added two in the fourth, another pair in the fifth and one in the seventh before the Phils put on their spurt.

Augie Galan led the Dodger attack with two doubles and Dixie Walker contributed a triple, knocking home two runs. Box:

NBA Still Considers Servo As Champion

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 3 (AP)—Abe Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, said today that his association still considers Marty Servo the welterweight champion despite the New York Commission's action in declaring the title vacant.

"In the event the New York Commission should appeal to the NBA for concurrence, the NBA would meet that situation when it comes up. We have nothing formal on the situation up to now."

Greene pointed out, however, that the annual NBA convention is slated for Cleveland next week and that inasmuch it is now six months since Servo won his title from Red Cochrane "some action may be taken."

Three Wagering Records Set At Garden State

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 4 (AP) — Three new betting records were made at Garden State Park, Monday in spite of the fact the attendance fell 286 short of equalling the 1945 record Labor Day crowd of 42,201. Monday's wagering totaled $2,791,956 as against the old mark of $2,757,583 made on August 24 this year. Monday's daily double pool of $178,254 topped the old $171,954 mark on Labor Day last year. The other betting record created Monday was the $405,193 wagered on a single race—The Benjamin Franklin Handicap. The previous mark was $402,340 bet on the Rancocas Stakes on Aug. 24.

TRIBE GRABS PAIR

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians turned back the St. Louis Browns 5-3 and 7-3 in a doubleheader before a sparse crowd of 2,952 today and moved into a tie with Chicago for fifth place in the American League.

After the Brownies had taken the lead in the nightcap on a two-run homer by Vern Stephens, the Indians came from behind in the third with a four-run uprising. Jim Seerey's twenty-second circuit-blow of the season, with Les Fleming on base, highlighted the rally.

In the opener the Indians built up a four-run margin in the sixth on a double by Don Ross, singles by Felix Mackiewicz, Lambert Meyer and Jim Hegan. An intentional walk and one of the Browns' four errors of the game also helped. Box:

Bob Falkenburg Conquers Patty In Net Tourney

Patricia Todd Subdues Mrs. Kay Menzies At Forest Hills

By GAYLE TALBOT

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP) — Bob Falkenburg, 20-year-old brother of Jinx of the movies and radio, showed one crowd the most eye-filling tennis of the national championships today as he slammed aside Budge Patty, hero of an earlier round.

The tall young University of Southern California student propelled himself into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Patty, who in the second round had trounced the chief foreign threat, Yvon Petra of France.

The intercollegiate champion made it look easy. Possessed of perhaps the most devastating first service in the game today, he simply blasted it past Patty for three sets without a miss, while breaking down Patty's own average delivery at the necessary intervals.

By the very ferocity and finality of his own over Patty, Falkenburg projected himself squarely into the championship picture. Two days hence he will bang headlong into Billy Talbert, the fourth-seeded player in the tournament and a stalwart of this nation's Davis Cup team. It promises to be quite a match.

Patricia Todd Is Winner

Falkenburg's victory shared the day's top honors with a women's match, in which Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd battled to near exhaustion before she ushered out the last of the foreign threats, pretty Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies of Britain, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4. It was a heroic struggle, in which Mrs. Menzies dropped the first seven games without a fight, and then came back to scrap the American girl down to the last wasp.

Mrs. Todd thus found herself in the quarter finals, in which she will encounter Louise Brough, the third-seeded star among the Americans.

Returning to the men's division, Jack Kramer, the big favorite, went safely into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 win over Edward Moylan, a surprisingly fine player from Trenton, N. J.

Talbert, runner-up to Frankie Parker for the title the past two years, reached the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-4, 8-6 win over Earl Cochell of Los Angeles, who had eliminated the veteran Elwood Cooke in the previous round. Talbert's slim margin of victory represented his ability to reach the net and slap the ball away on the telling point.

Pauline Betz Scores

Pauline Betz continued to ride high and handsome at the head of the women's division with a 6-1, 6-1 exhibition over Katharine Winthrop of S. Hamilton, Mass. Her next intended victim will be Gertrude Moran of Santa Monica, Calif.

Don McNeill, a former champion now registered from Orange, N. J., and Pierre Pelizza of France, seeded third among the foreign men entries, battled into the darkness without having reached a decision in their fourth-round match. Pelizza won the first set 6-4, and McNeill came back to cop the next two, 14-12 and 6-1, before the authorities declared a curfew. They will tussle it out tomorrow, the prize being the questionable privilege of playing Kramer in the quarter-finals.

Chipman, Chicago Cubs' Southpaw, Shuts Out Bucs

Bob Yields Five Blows As Windy City Club Wins, 2 to 0

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 3 (AP)—Lefty Bob Chipman set down the Pirates with five hits today as the Chicago Cubs won the odd game of the series, 2 to 0.

Chipman figured in a scoreless duel with Jack Hallett until the seventh inning. When Peanuts Lowry doubled, Lou Stringer singled and Chipman squeezed home the second run with a sacrifice bunt.

Elbie Fletcher, Pittsburgh first-sacker, was chased by Umpire George Magerkurth at the end of the eighth inning when he argued that Phil Cavarretta trapped his line drive, instead of making a fair catch. Box:

BRAVES TRIP GIANTS

BOSTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — Tommy Holmes's double with the bases loaded topped off a four-run Boston rally in the seventh inning today that gave the Braves a 5-4 decision over the New York Giants. It was the final Boston appearance of the Giants who had not won a series at Braves Field all season.

The Boston spurt in the seventh started after two were out. Carden Gillenwater's single and two walks loaded the sacks and Ryan drove in the first run with an infield single. Holmes's double sent home three more routing starter Dave Koslo.

Waker Cooper's home run with Rucker on base knocked out Jim Wallace, who took over after Lee had been lifted for a pinchhitter. Box:

Bob Pence Is Pro Cager

By C. V. BURNS

This figure exceeds by $12,300 the previous all-time high of $64,000 offered in 1945.

Johnny Tammaro, of Baltimore, received the trophy for amassing the greatest number of points at the meeting, edging out Bobby Runyon, the Kansan, by a single tally, but Runyon and Sammy Palumbo, the Brooklyn veteran, finished 1-2 in the matter of the highest winning percentage. Runyon had 45 mounts and rode 13 winners for an average of .29 while Palumbo with seven wins in 29 mounts turned in an average of .28. Holland was third with .22 for six wins in 27 mounts. Patsy Grant, fourth, with .18 (6 in 32) followed by Eddie Ballenger (7 in 40) .17 and Tammaro (10 in 58) .17.

Tammaro collected the greatest amount of money, a total of $970, an average of $97 a day, based on $25 for a win and $15 for all other mounts.

Runyon took $805 followed in order by E. Carrillo $720, Eddie Ballenger $665, G. Cardoza $565, Patsy Grant $540, "Skeets" Holland $465, Sammy Palumbo $445, Danny Scocca $375, Patrick "Jack" O'Brien $360, Mike Sarno $355, Benny Leggett $350 and A. F. Martinez $325. Twenty-nine riders got two or more mounts during the meeting.

Two hundred and forty-nine different horses raced at Fairgo. Gypsy Moth, White Sea, Pete's Gold and Toil Away went to the post on five occasions while twenty-four horses figured in five races each.

Racing Secretary William M. Shewbridge said there were 300 thoroughbreds stabled here. He also pointed out that it takes approximately 425 thoroughbreds to make a first-class minor meet.

"One of the big mistakes made at a minor track is the granting of too many stalls to large stables," Shewbridge declared. "They control the meet and when they don't enter more than two of their 15 or more horses a day that makes it difficult to fill entries for the races. We had six or seven large stables at Fairgo this year and they really made the going tough. We'll guard against that in future meets."

Independent basketball may get a much-needed shot in the arm here this winter if a first class team is organized.

Bob Pence, Allegany high school's new football coach, is anxious to play here. He was headed for the Youngstown, Ohio, Club of the professional league, but turned down the offer after landing the grid coaching job at Campobello.

Apprentice "Jack" O'Brien, of Midland, was aboard Paula Grier when she won at Timonium yesterday and paid $10.80. The Paula Grier-O'Brien team registered at Fairgo twice and returned $57 and $18.30.

Dodgers Reduce Cardinals' Lead By Beating Phils

Brooklyn Clips Redbirds' Edge To Two Games With 6-4 Win

BROOKLYN, Sept. 3. (AP)—Brooklyn clipped the idle St. Louis Cardinals' lead to two games tonight with a 6-4 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies in the final night game of the season at Ebbets Field.

Kirby Higbe needed relief help from Hank Behrman when the Phillies rallied to score three runs in the eighth inning, but the Maspeth, N. Y., rookie saved Higbe's 14th victory.

Stopping off at home for the first time since Aug. 18, the Brooks polished off the Phils and then headed for Boston, where they will conclude their tour of the circuit with a two-game set. Of their remaining 24 games, only five will be played on the road, all of them at Boston.

Tom Hughes, who had started only one game since June 8, was reached for a run in the first inning, and the Brooks added two in the fourth, another pair in the fifth and one in the seventh before the Phils put on their spurt.

Augie Galan led the Dodger attack with two doubles and Dixie Walker contributed a triple, knocking home two runs. Box:

NBA Still Considers Servo As Champion

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 3 (AP)—Abe Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, said today that his association still considers Marty Servo the welterweight champion despite the New York Commission's action in declaring the title vacant.

"In the event the New York Commission should appeal to the NBA for concurrence, the NBA would meet that situation when it comes up. We have nothing formal on the situation up to now."

Greene pointed out, however, that the annual NBA convention is slated for Cleveland next week and that inasmuch it is now six months since Servo won his title from Red Cochrane "some action may be taken."

Three Wagering Records Set At Garden State

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 4 (AP) — Three new betting records were made at Garden State Park, Monday in spite of the fact the attendance fell 286 short of equalling the 1945 record Labor Day crowd of 42,201. Monday's wagering totaled $2,791,956 as against the old mark of $2,757,583 made on August 24 this year. Monday's daily double pool of $178,254 topped the old $177,954 mark on Labor Day last year. The other betting record created Monday was the $405,193 wagered on a single race—The Benjamin Franklin Handicap. The previous mark was $402,340 bet on the Rancocas Stakes on Aug. 24.

TRIBE GRABS PAIR

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians turned back the St. Louis Browns 5-3 and 7-3 in a doubleheader before a sparse crowd of 2,952 today and moved into a tie with Chicago for fifth place in the American League.

After the Brownies had taken the lead in the nightcap on a two-run homer by Vern Stephens, the Indians came from behind in the third with a four-run uprising. Jim Seerey's twenty-second circuit-blow of the season, with Les Fleming on base, highlighted the rally.

In the opener the Indians built up a four-run margin in the sixth on a double by Don Ross, singles by Felix Mackiewicz, Lambert Meyer and Jim Hegan. An intentional walk and one of the Browns' four errors of the game also helped. Box:

Bob Falkenburg Conquers Patty In Net Tourney

By GAYLE TALBOT

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP) — Bob Falkenburg, 20-year-old brother of Jinx of the movies and radio, showed one crowd the most eye-filling tennis of the national championships today as he slammed aside Budge Patty, hero of an earlier round.

The tall young University of Southern California student propelled himself into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Patty, who in the second round had trounced the chief foreign threat, Yvon Petra of France.

The intercollegiate champion made it look easy. Possessed of perhaps the most devastating first service in the game today, he simply blasted it past Patty for three sets without a miss, while breaking down Patty's own average delivery at the necessary intervals.

By the very ferocity and finality of his own over Patty, Falkenburg projected himself squarely into the championship picture. Two days hence he will bang headlong into Billy Talbert, the fourth-seeded player in the tournament and a stalwart of this nation's Davis Cup team. It promises to be quite a match.

Patricia Todd Is Winner

Falkenburg's victory shared the day's top honors with a women's match, in which Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd battled to near exhaustion before she ushered out the last of the foreign threats, pretty Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies of Britain, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4. It was a heroic struggle, in which Mrs. Menzies dropped the first seven games without a fight, and then came back to scrap the American girl down to the last vasp.

Mrs. Todd thus found herself in the quarter finals, in which she will encounter Louise Brough, the third-seeded star among the Americans.

Returning to the men's division, Jack Kramer, the big favorite, went safely into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 win over Edward Moylan, a surprisingly fine player from Trenton, N. J.

Talbert, runner-up to Frankie Parker for the title the past two years, reached the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-4, 8-6 win over Earl Cochell of Los Angeles, who had eliminated the veteran Elwood Cooke in the previous round. Talbert's slim margin of victory represented his ability to reach the net and slap the ball away on the telling point.

Pauline Betz Scores

Pauline Betz continued to ride high and handsome at the head of the women's division with a 6-1, 6-1 exhibition over Katharine Winthrop of S. Hamilton, Mass. Her next intended victim will be Gertrude Moran of Santa Monica, Calif.

Don McNeill, a former champion now registered from Orange, N. J., and Pierre Pelizza of France, seeded third among the foreign men entries, battled into the darkness without having reached a decision in their fourth-round match. Pelizza won the first set 6-4, and McNeill came back to cop the next two, 14-12 and 6-1, before the authorities declared a curfew. They will tussle it out tomorrow, the prize being the questionable privilege of playing Kramer in the quarter-finals.

Bob Yields Five Blows As Windy City Club Wins, 2 to 0

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 3 (AP)—Lefty Bob Chipman set down the Pirates with five hits today as the Chicago Cubs won the odd game of the series, 2 to 0.

Chipman figured in a scoreless duel with Jack Hallett until the seventh inning. When Peanuts Lowry doubled, Lou Stringer singled and Chipman squeezed home the second run with a sacrifice bunt.

Elbie Fletcher, Pittsburgh first-sacker, was chased by Umpire George Magerkurth at the end of the eighth inning when he argued that Phil Cavarretta trapped his line drive, instead of making a fair catch. Box:

BRAVES TRIP GIANTS

BOSTON, Sept. 3 (AP) — Tommy Holmes's double with the bases loaded topped off a four-run Boston rally in the seventh inning today that gave the Braves a 5-4 decision over the New York Giants. It was the final Boston appearance of the Giants who had not won a series at Braves Field all season.

The Boston spurt in the seventh started after two were out. Carden Gillenwater's single and two walks loaded the sacks and Ryan drove in the first run with an infield single. Holmes's double sent home three more routing starter Dave Koslo.

Waker Cooper's home run with Rucker on base knocked out Jim Wallace, who took over after Lee had been lifted for a pinchhitter. Box:

NARRAGANSETT PARK, R. I., Sept. 3 (AP) — Narragansett Park Stewards John P. Turner and Edward J. Fenelon, Jr., announced today the suspension of Trainer Lyle Whiting, explaining that tests had shown the presence of ephedrine in the horse Kengar, winner of the third race at the track August 26.

The stewards referred Whiting's case to the Rhode Island Racing Commission. The action was taken on a report on the state chemist.

Runyon's Average Was .29

Tammaro Collected $970

Bob Pence Is Pro Cager

By C. V. BURNS

Purses totaling $76,700, a new record, were distributed among the horsemen during the Cumberland Fair Association's 1946 ten - day meeting which ended last Saturday.

This figure exceeds by $12,300 the previous all-time high of $64,000 offered in 1945.

Johnny Tammaro, of Baltimore, received the trophy for amassing the greatest number of points at the meeting, edging out Bobby Runyon, the Kansan, by a single tally, but Runyon and Sammy Palumbo, the Brooklyn veteran, finished 1-2 in the matter of the highest winning percentage. Runyon had 45 mounts and rode 13 winners for an average of .29 while Palumbo with seven wins in 29 mounts turned in an average of .28. Holland was third with .22 for six wins in 27 mounts. Patsy Grant, fourth, with .18 (6 in 32) followed by Eddie Ballenger (7 in 40) .17 and Tammaro (10 in 58) .17.

Tammaro collected the greatest amount of money, a total of $970, an average of $97 a day, based on $25 for a win and $15 for all other mounts.

Runyon took $805 followed in order by E. Carrillo $720, Eddie Ballenger $665, G. Cardoza $565, Patsy Grant $540, "Skeets" Holland $465, Sammy Palumbo $445, Danny Scocca $375, Patrick "Jack" O'Brien $360, Mike Sarno $355, Benny Leggett $350 and A. F. Martinez $325. Twenty-nine riders got two or more mounts during the meeting.

Two hundred and forty-nine different horses raced at Fairgo. Gypsy Moth, White Sea, Pete's Gold and Toil Away went to the post on five occasions while twenty-four horses figured in five races each.

Racing Secretary William M. Shewbridge said there were 300 thoroughbreds stabled here. He also pointed out that it takes approximately 425 thoroughbreds to make a first-class minor meet.

"One of the big mistakes made at a minor track is the granting of too many stalls to large stables," Shewbridge declared. "They control the meet and when they don't enter more than two of their 15 or more horses a day that makes it difficult to fill entries for the races. We had six or seven large stables at Fairgo this year and they really made the going tough. We'll guard against that in future meets."

Independent basketball may get a much-needed shot in the arm here this winter if a first class team is organized.

Bob Pence, Allegany high school's new football coach, is anxious to play here. He was headed for the Youngstown, Ohio, Club of the professional league, but turned down the offer after landing the grid coaching job at Campobello.

Apprentice "Jack" O'Brien, of Midland, was aboard Paula Grier when she won at Timonium yesterday and paid $10.80. The Paula Grier-O'Brien team registered at Fairgo twice and returned $57 and $18.30.

Mike Jacobs Calls Off Robinson-Servo Fight

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—Holman Williams, of Detroit, told Promoter Mike Jacobs today he would willingly substitute for Champion Marty Servo against Ray Robinson at Yankee Stadium Friday, but Jacobs called off the card, following the champion's announcement he was unable to box because of a nose injury.

Instead Jacobs arranged for an all-star program in Madison Square Garden topped by a pair of eight-rounders which will pit Bernie Docusen of New Orleans against Norman Rubio of Albany in one and Eddie Giosa of Philadelphia against Johnny Dell of New York in the other.

Mike Jacobs Calls Off Robinson-Servo Fight

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—Holman Williams, of Detroit, told Promoter Mike Jacobs today he would willingly substitute for Champion Marty Servo against Ray Robinson at Yankee Stadium Friday, but Jacobs called off the card, following the champion's announcement he was unable to box because of a nose injury.

Instead Jacobs arranged for an all-star program in Madison Square Garden topped by a pair of eight-rounders which will pit Bernie Docusen of New Orleans against Norman Rubio of Albany in one and Eddie Giosa of Philadelphia against Johnny Dell of New York in the other.

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved Mother, Mrs. Eliza Wright, who passed away three years ago, Sept. 2, 1943

A faith that is ever before us,
A voice we cannot forget,
Her smile will linger forever,
In our memories we see them yet.

As we loved her, so we miss her,
In our hearts she is so near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Brings many a silent tear.

Beautiful memories are all that are left.
Of the one we loved and shall never forget.

Sadly missed by her children,
HARRY, SAM AND CHARLES WRIGHT
AND MRS. THOMAS TURNER.

For All Faiths

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved Mother, Mrs. Eliza Wright, who passed away three years ago, Sept. 2, 1943

A faith that is ever before us,
A voice we cannot forget,
Her smile will linger forever,
In our memories we see them yet.

As we loved her, so we miss her,
In our hearts she is so near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Brings many a silent tear.

Beautiful memories are all that are left.
Of the one we loved and shall never forget.

Sadly missed by her children,
HARRY, SAM AND CHARLES WRIGHT
AND MRS. THOMAS TURNER.

Oscar Cosner, 36, Tells Police He Beat Wife With Baseball Bat; Faces Murder Charge

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 3—Oscar Cosner, 36-year-old Keyser mail carrier, confessed to State Police this morning that he killed his wife, 30-year-old slightly built, dark-eyed Hazel Evelyn Cosner, admitting that he beat her on the head with a baseball bat after she returned home about 1 a. m. from a suspected rendezvous with another man. Their three children were asleep in an adjacent room when the slaying took place.

Vernon E. Rankin, prescuting attorney of Mineral County, filed a first degree murder charge against Cosner and he was held in the county jail here to await action of the grand jury of the October term of court which meets October 15.

Rankin said Cosner "beat her brains out" and that in his opinion "any one of four blows could have killed her."

An autopsy was performed on Mrs. Cosner's body at the Markwood Funeral Home here shortly after noon today by Dr. Thaddeus Huffman and Dr. James A. Newcomb, Keyser physicians. The former said the autopsy showed multiple fractures of the brain with a laceration of the covering of the brain into the lateral sinus of the brain, which hemorrhaged.

Summoned By Neighbor

Dr. Huffman said he received a telephone call at 4:45 a. m. from Mrs. Elmer Yost, a neighbor, and immediately went to the home. He placed the time of death at approximately 4:30. Keyser police were summoned at 5 a. m. and they immediately telephoned State Police.

State Trooper L. E. Proudfoot said Cosner at first denied any knowledge of the crime but that his story "didn't stand up" and he confessed. He told officers: "I lost control of myself from being in a highly nervous condition."

"I found her on the floor downstairs," were Cosner's first words when police entered the house, Proudfoot said, but he added that "there was no question" about where the murder took place.

Cosner told officers his wife "must have fallen down the steps," Proudfoot related, before he admitted the slaying and disclosed the hiding place of the weapon beneath the attic floor.

Rankin said the second floor bedroom was a "bloody mess," with blood splattered over the walls, on the bed mattress and on the floor.

According to the prosecutor, the Cosners have been having marital difficulties for some time, and Cosner said in his statement that he was confronted last year by a Keyser woman who informed him of an affair between her husband and Mrs. Cosner. Cosner told police he signed half of his property and half of his income to his wife at that time in an effort to persuade her to stop associating with the man in question. State Police said Cosner told them his wife had been "chasing around with another man."

Mrs. Cosner, Rankin said, was away from home last night and did not return until 1 a. m. Cosner, who has been a postoffice employe for 10 years awaited her, and on her arrival they went to their second floor bedroom and an argument ensued.

"Usual Smart Answers"

The wife undressed and went to bed but the argument continued. "I asked her who she had been out with and she gave me her usual smart answers," Cosner told police, adding that he went to the cellar for the bat immediately.

When he returned with the bat, described as a child's bat, rather heavy and short, Cosner beat his wife over the head a number of times, judging by the condition of her head and the large number of bruises on her left arm, Rankin said.

He explained that Mrs. Cosner "must have tried to ward off the blows as her left arm was badly bruised." Rankin said most of the blows "landed on the head and top of the skull. He literally beat her brains out." Rankin said it had not been determined if Mrs. Cosner was asleep when her husband attacked her.

When they found it, the bat was broken, police said, but they added it might have been broken before Cosner beat his wife. They said pieces of wood from the bat were found in her bed, and that the bat, when found, was covered in places with blood and hair.

When police arrived, Mrs. Cosner was lying on the bed, clad only in undergarments, but officers said a trail of blood led them to the basement and back again. They found her blood-covered nightgown on the cellar steps, and a man's shirt, apparently used to wipe blood, was found in the kitchen.

Cosner told the officers that when he first realized he had killed his wife, he decided to divert suspicion from himself by saying he had discovered her body in the basement. He carried the body down the two flights of steps to the cellar but then carried it back again.

Wanted "To Cover Up"

Trooper Proudfoot said Cosner told officers he moved the body to the cellar and back "to cover up" and "for the children's sake," apparently to keep them from knowing he had slain their mother.

The three Cosner children, Vance, 8, Vince, 7, and Theodore, about 2, apparently slept through the whole affair.

Cosner told officers he woke Vance after returning their mother's body to the bedroom and told him to go to Mrs. Yost's home to summon her and also to use her telephone to call a physician.

Mrs. Yost said she heard no noise at the cosner home but that she was awakened by Vance who told her, "Mother's hurt."

Today Mrs. Yost took care of the children, but tonight they were taken to an orphanage at Burlington, at least temporarily, Proudfoot said.

He added that the children "don't seem to know what it's all about. They know something terrible has happened but don't realize the seriousness of it."

When police arrived at the home, Cosner was in the kitchen, Rankin said. He reported that when Cosner was taken to jail he asked for solitary confinement as he "wanted

Weicht Convicted Of Manslaughter In Miller's Death

Judge Holds Westernport Man Used "More Force Than Was Necessary"

WESTMINSTER, Md., Sept. 3, (AP)—Chief Judge James E. Boylan, Jr., ruled today a former soldier on his new job as an attendant at Springfield State Hospital was guilty of manslaughter in using "more force than necessary" to subdue an elderly patient.

Judge Boylan convicted James E. Weicht, 24, of Westernport, Md., after an all-day trial in Carroll County Circuit Court without a jury.

He found Weicht guilty of "criminal carelessness" in hitting J. Franklin Miller, Sr., 68-year-old Hagerstown patient, in a scuffle over a safety pin.

Weicht, on the stand, said he had only been on the job a week and that he was afraid of patients in Cottage "P" at the hospital.

"I'd never handled these people before," he testified. "I hit him with my open hand."

Died Next Day

Miller died the next day, August 18, of a brain hemorrhage as he was being treated for a broken hip and jaw.

Weicht said he believed Miller might hurt himself with the safety pin. The patient refused to give it up, he testified.

"He was standing by his bed," Weicht said. "He tried to hit me."

Attendant James E. Spradling testified he saw Weicht kick Miller.

Weicht's attorneys have three days for appeals before sentencing.

Judge Boylan accompanied his verdict with a lengthy review of the testimony and the reasoning behind his decision.

"It is the hope of the court," he said, "that these remarks will have a beneficial influence upon those charged with the custody of those hapless and helpless inmates of hospitals for the insane.

"They desire and deserve kindly sympathy and gentle care instead of callous indifference and brutal treatment.

"Defendant accepted employment with full knowledge that his duties required him to look after people who were bereft of reason. In accepting such employment he surely realized that these unfortunates needed more care and attention than ordinary persons and that their eccentricities and vagaries had to be dealt with in an especial manner. x x x

"It has been held that one using excessive force of unnecessary violence in self defense is guilty of manslaughter. In the instant case there was exercised more force than was necessary and the use of such force mounts up to criminal negligence. The court is required to find defendant guilty of manslaughter."

Saw Weicht Kick Miller

Among spectators were Miller's widow and son, J. Frank Miller, Jr., Hagerstown, and a daughter, Mrs. R. B. Eckles of LaFayette, Ind.

Spradling said he saw Weicht struggling with the patient and that Miller fell to the floor after Weicht hit him. The witness related that he saw Weicht kick Miller and drag him to a bed. Spradling said he did not see where Miller was kicked.

Louis Arnsworthy, night supervisor, said he checked with Weicht in the cottage at 5 a. m. and the attendant reported "a very quiet night."

Refresher Course For School Cooks To Be Held Today

Miss Flora G. Dowler, Pittsburgh, Will Give Demonstration

Miss Flora G. Dowler, Pittsburgh, home service superintendent of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, will be the instructor at a one-day refresher course for cooks and lunch room workers of the Allegany County Board of Education school lunch program which will open this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the home service auditorium of the C. and A. Gas Company offices on Baltimore street.

The session will be opened by William P. Cooper, school lunch supervisor of the board of education. About 75 cooks and their helpers are expected to attend the annual seminar.

Miss Dowler said the course will stress how foods which are now in abundance can be used to best advantage in the school lunch program.

One of the products which will be available to schools will be tomato flakes and samples of the dehydrated product will be used in demonstrations during the morning's session. Foods prepared during the classes will be served at lunch.

To Give Demonstration

Tomato flakes, developed during the war to have shipping space, have the same food and vitamin content as fresh tomatoes, Miss Dowler said, adding that one pound of the flakes will make a gallon of tomato puree.

The second new food to be demonstrated, concentrated orange juice, will also be available in quantities for school lunches. One gallon of the concentrate will make seven gallons of juice which Miss Dowler described as the nearest thing to fresh juice available. It also was developed during the war to save shipping space and is prepared by evaporating 90 per cent of the water content of fresh orange juice.

Besides its use as juice, the concentrate may be used with gelatin for moulded fruit and vegetable salads and in custards and icings.

Face Rising Costs

In view of the increases in food costs, one of the biggest problems facing the school lunch program this year is how to provide adequate meals with only slight increases in the cost of meals, Miss Dowler said.

Among the solutions to the problem to be discussed will be the minimizing of food waste, better food planning and economy through closer supervision.

The meeting will also review the problems of personal cleanliness, care of equipment and garbage and refuse disposal, stressing the motto, "Keep clean and not make clean."

Menus used in today's lunch will be discussed along with menus and recipes which will utilize foods available for the coming school year.

Teamsters Union Settles With One Trucking Firm

Local 453 Plans Meeting Sunday For Beer Distributors Here

Although a "satisfactory agreement" was reached yesterday afternoon with one of the nine strike-bound trucking companies of this city, an official of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, said he doubted if there would be a real break in the work stoppage until tomorrow.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent, said the local reached an agreement with the Maryland Motor Lines, 904 Glenwood street, at a conference with Mortimer Schaidt, owner and manager yesterday about 3 p. m.

The union official said the company agreed to pay $1 an hour for city drivers, helpers and warehousemen. He declined to state rates of pay granted to over-the-road drivers but designated the offer as satisfactory.

Some 85 drivers employed by the Charlton Brothers, Steinla Transportation, Cumberland Express, Novick Transfer, Maryland Motor Lines, Crites Transfer, Glen Morris Transfer and Chaney Transportation companies stopped work yesto meet union demands for wage increases.

The ninth firm is a company operated by the Celanese Corporation of America employing about 15 drivers.

Have Counter Proposal

Stutzman said the union has prepared a counter proposal to present to the companies but declined to divulge the rates until companies have had a chance to accept or reject the proposal.

He said the attorney for the trucking firms was out of town yesterday and that negotiations with the companies is usually handled by the attorney.

Although there was no attempt to formally picket the firms involved in the stoppage Stutzman said the workers are not permitting trucks to deliver merchandise to the struck businesses.

The settlement of the stoppage is somewhat complicated by the fact that many of the firms operate in Hagerstown area under the jurisdiction of Local 992, Teamsters Union, which struck simultaneously with the Cumberland local.

Wants Joint Meeting

Stutzman said the union will request a joint conference of Local 453 and Local 922 so that all details may be ironed out satisfactorily.

The union official said drivers are continuing to haul milk from farmers in the Bedford section but said some wholesale grocery companies here would be affected by the strike which would curtail their deliveries.

Company spokesmen point out that drivers have received nearly a 50 per cent increase in wages since the Little Steel formula went into effect. Increases include a 28 per cent increase by the companies in 1942, 12 per cent by the WLB in 1943 and five per cent by the companies in 1945.

Stutzman said the union hopes to arrange a meeting Sunday with 17 beer distributors of the Cumberland area in connection with a contract which expired June 1.

A representative of the Pittsburgh Joint-Teamsters council will be present at the conference as well as a spokesman for the Western Pennsylvania Beer Distributors Association, he added.

Frederick A. Puderbaugh, attorney for the distributors, said the companies have no voice in the agreement, and will not sign a contract which they do not negotiate.

Barton Legion License Opposed

Group Of Citizens File Remonstrance; Another Resident Submits Letter

A remonstrance filed by a large number of Barton citizens in Circuit Court yesterday morning against issuance of a Class C club liquor license to Barton Post No. 189, American Legion, was followed yesterday afternoon by a letter of protest from Mrs. J. J. McDonald, another Barton resident.

The application for the license was filed August 20 by Dayid Clark, acting for the Legion Post, organized last month. No date has been set by the Judges for a hearing on the protest.

The remonstrance filed yesterday morning was signed by 112 persons who identified themselves as "citizens of Barton and members and officials of the Barton Methodist Church." They said they oppose the license because the location is too close to the Methodist church, is near the Barton graded and high schools and because "we believe it to be against the ordinances of God and our earnest convictions for the decency and morale of our town and country."

Keyser Mail Carrier Admits Slaying Wife

Oscar Cosner, 36, Tells Police He Beat Wife With Baseball Bat; Faces Murder Charge

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 3—Oscar Cosner, 36-year-old Keyser mail carrier, confessed to State Police this morning that he killed his wife, 30-year-old slightly built, dark-eyed Hazel Evelyn Cosner, admitting that he beat her on the head with a baseball bat after she returned home about 1 a. m. from a suspected rendezvous with another man. Their three children were asleep in an adjacent room when the slaying took place.

Vernon E. Rankin, prescuting attorney of Mineral County, filed a first degree murder charge against Cosner and he was held in the county jail here to await action of the grand jury of the October term of court which meets October 15.

Rankin said Cosner "beat her brains out" and that in his opinion "any one of four blows could have killed her."

An autopsy was performed on Mrs. Cosner's body at the Markwood Funeral Home here shortly after noon today by Dr. Thaddeus Huffman and Dr. James A. Newcomb, Keyser physicians. The former said the autopsy showed multiple fractures of the brain with a laceration of the covering of the brain into the lateral sinus of the brain, which hemorrhaged.

Summoned By Neighbor

Dr. Huffman said he received a telephone call at 4:45 a. m. from Mrs. Elmer Yost, a neighbor, and immediately went to the home. He placed the time of death at approximately 4:30. Keyser police were summoned at 5 a. m. and they immediately telephoned State Police.

State Trooper L. E. Proudfoot said Cosner at first denied any knowledge of the crime but that his story "didn't stand up" and he confessed. He told officers: "I lost control of myself from being in a highly nervous condition."

"I found her on the floor downstairs," were Cosner's first words when police entered the house, Proudfoot said, but he added that "there was no question" about where the murder took place.

Cosner told officers his wife "must have fallen down the steps," Proudfoot related, before he admitted the slaying and disclosed the hiding place of the weapon beneath the attic floor.

Rankin said the second floor bedroom was a "bloody mess," with blood splattered over the walls, on the bed mattress and on the floor.

According to the prosecutor, the Cosners have been having marital difficulties for some time, and Cosner said in his statement that he was confronted last year by a Keyser woman who informed him of an affair between her husband and Mrs. Cosner. Cosner told police he signed half of his property and half of his income to his wife at that time in an effort to persuade her to stop associating with the man in question. State Police said Cosner told them his wife had been "chasing around with another man."

Mrs. Cosner, Rankin said, was away from home last night and did not return until 1 a. m. Cosner, who has been a postoffice employe for 10 years awaited her, and on her arrival they went to their second floor bedroom and an argument ensued.

"Usual Smart Answers"

The wife undressed and went to bed but the argument continued. "I asked her who she had been out with and she gave me her usual smart answers," Cosner told police, adding that he went to the cellar for the bat immediately.

When he returned with the bat, described as a child's bat, rather heavy and short, Cosner beat his wife over the head a number of times, judging by the condition of her head and the large number of bruises on her left arm, Rankin said.

He explained that Mrs. Cosner "must have tried to ward off the blows as her left arm was badly bruised." Rankin said most of the blows landed on the head and top of the skull. He literally beat her brains out." Rankin said it had not been determined if Mrs. Cosner was asleep when her husband attacked her.

When they found it, the bat was broken, police said, but they added it might have been broken before Cosner beat his wife. They said pieces of wood from the bat were found in her bed, and that the bat, when found, was covered in places with blood and hair.

When police arrived, Mrs. Cosner was lying on the bed, clad only in undergarments, but officers said a trail of blood led them to the basement and back again. They found her blood-covered nightgown on the cellar steps, and a man's shirt, apparently used to wipe blood, was found in the kitchen.

Cosner told the officers that when he first realized he had killed his wife, he decided to divert suspicion from himself by saying he had discovered her body in the basement. He carried the body down the two flights of steps to the cellar but then carried it back again.

Wanted "To Cover Up"

Trooper Proudfoot said Cosner told officers he moved the body to the cellar and back "to cover up" and "for the children's sake," apparently to keep them from knowing he had slain their mother.

The three Cosner children, Vance, 8, Vince, 7, and Theodore, about 2, apparently slept through the whole affair.

Cosner told officers he woke Vance after returning their mother's body to the bedroom and told him to go to Mrs. Yost's home to summon her and also to use her telephone to call a physician.

Mrs. Yost said she heard no noise at the cosner home but that she was awakened by Vance who told her, "Mother's hurt."

Today Mrs. Yost took care of the children, but tonight they were taken to an orphanage at Burlington, at least temporarily, Proudfoot said.

He added that the children "don't seem to know what it's all about. They know something terrible has happened but don't realize the seriousness of it."

When police arrived at the home, Cosner was in the kitchen, Rankin said. He reported that when Cosner was taken to jail he asked for solitary confinement as he "wanted

Weicht Convicted Of Manslaughter In Miller's Death

Judge Holds Westernport Man Used "More Force Than Was Necessary"

WESTMINSTER, Md., Sept. 3, (AP)—Chief Judge James E. Boylan, Jr., ruled today a former soldier on his new job as an attendant at Springfield State Hospital was guilty of manslaughter in using "more force than necessary" to subdue an elderly patient.

Judge Boylan convicted James E. Weicht, 24, of Westernport, Md., after an all-day trial in Carroll County Circuit Court without a jury.

He found Weicht guilty of "criminal carelessness" in hitting J. Franklin Miller, Sr., 58-year-old Hagerstown patient, in a scuffle over a safety pin.

Weicht, on the stand, said he had only been on the job a week and that he was afraid of patients in Cottage "F" at the hospital.

"I'd never handled these people before," he testified. "I hit him with my open hand."

Died Next Day

Miller died the next day, August 18, of a brain hemorrhage as he was being treated for a broken hip and jaw.

Weicht said he believed Miller might hurt himself with the safety pin. The patient refused to give it up, he testified.

"He was standing by his bed," Weicht said. "He tried to hit me."

Attendant James E. Spradling testified he saw Weicht kick Miller.

Weicht's attorneys have three days for appeals before sentencing.

Judge Boylan accompanied his verdict with a lengthy review of the testimony and the reasoning behind his decision.

"It is the hope of the court," he said, "that these remarks will have a beneficial influence upon those charged with the custody of those hapless and helpless inmates of hospitals for the insane.

"They desire and deserve kindly sympathy and gentle care instead of callous indifference and brutal treatment.

"Defendant accepted employment with full knowledge that his duties required him to look after people who were bereft of reason. In accepting such employment he surely realized that these unfortunates needed more care and attention than ordinary persons and that their eccentricities and vagaries had to be dealt with in an especial manner. x x x

"It has been held that one using excessive force of unnecessary violence in self defense is guilty of manslaughter. In the instant case there was exercised more force than was necessary and the use of such force mounts up to criminal negligence. The court is required to find defendant guilty of manslaughter."

Saw Weicht Kick Miller

Among spectators were Miller's widow and son, J. Frank Miller, Jr., Hagerstown, and a daughter, Mrs. R. B. Eckles of LaFayette, Ind.

Spradling said he saw Weicht struggling with the patient and that Miller fell to the floor after Weicht hit him. The witness related that he saw Weicht kick Miller and drag him to a bed. Spradling said he did not see where Miller was kicked.

Louis Arnsworthy, night supervisor, said he checked with Weicht in the cottage at 5 a. m. and the attendant reported "a very quiet night."

Miss Flora G. Dowler, Pittsburgh, Will Give Demonstration

Miss Flora G. Dowler, Pittsburgh, home service superintendent of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, will be the instructor at a one-day refresher course for cooks and lunch room workers of the Allegany County Board of Education school lunch program which will open this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the home service auditorium of the C. and A. Gas Company offices on Baltimore street.

The session will be opened by William P. Cooper, school lunch supervisor of the board of education. About 75 cooks and their helpers are expected to attend the annual seminar.

Miss Dowler said the course will stress how foods which are now in abundance can be used to best advantage in the school lunch program.

One of the products which will be available to schools will be tomato flakes and samples of the dehydrated product will be used in demonstrations during the morning's session. Foods prepared during the classes will be served at lunch.

To Give Demonstration

Tomato flakes, developed during the war to have shipping space, have the same food and vitamin content as fresh tomatoes, Miss Dowler said, adding that one pound of the flakes will make a gallon of tomato puree.

The second new food to be demonstrated, concentrated orange juice, will also be available in quantities for school lunches. One gallon of the concentrate will make seven gallons of juice which Miss Dowler described as the nearest thing to fresh juice available. It also was developed during the war to save shipping space and is prepared by evaporating 90 per cent of the water content of fresh orange juice.

Besides its use as juice, the concentrate may be used with gelatin for moulded fruit and vegetable salads and in custards and icings.

Face Rising Costs

In view of the increases in food costs, one of the biggest problems facing the school lunch program this year is how to provide adequate meals with only slight increases in the cost of meals, Miss Dowler said.

Among the solutions to the problem to be discussed will be the minimizing of food waste, better food planning and economy through closer supervision.

The meeting will also review the problems of personal cleanliness, care of equipment and garbage and refuse disposal, stressing the motto, "Keep clean and not make clean."

Menus used in today's lunch will be discussed along with menus and recipes which will utilize foods available for the coming school year.

Teamsters Union Settles With One Trucking Firm

Local 453 Plans Meeting Sunday For Beer Distributors Here

Although a "satisfactory agreement" was reached yesterday afternoon with one of the nine strikebound trucking companies of this city, an official of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, said he doubted if there would be a real break in the work stoppage until tomorrow.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent, said the local reached an agreement with the Maryland Motor Lines, 904 Glenwood street, at a conference with Mortimer Schaidt, owner and manager yesterday about 3 p. m.

The union official said the company agreed to pay $1 an hour for city drivers, helpers and warehousemen. He declined to state rates of pay granted to over-the-road drivers but designated the offer as satisfactory.

Some 85 drivers employed by the Charlton Brothers, Steinla Transportation, Cumberland Express, Novick Transfer, Maryland Motor Lines, Crites Transfer, Glen Morris Transfer and Chaney Transportation companies stopped work yesto meet union demands for wage increases.

The ninth firm is a company operated by the Celanese Corporation of America employing about 15 drivers.

Have Counter Proposal

Stutzman said the union has prepared a counter proposal to present to the companies but declined to divulge the rates until companies have had a chance to accept or reject the proposal.

He said the attorney for the trucking firms was out of town yesterday and that negotiations with the companies is usually handled by the attorney.

Although there was no attempt to formally picket the firms involved in the stoppage Stutzman said the workers are not permitting trucks to deliver merchandise to the struck businesses.

The settlement of the stoppage is somewhat complicated by the fact that many of the firms operate in Hagerstown area under the jurisdiction of Local 992, Teamsters Union, which struck simultaneously with the Cumberland local.

Wants Joint Meeting

Stutzman said the union will request a joint conference of Local 453 and Local 922 so that all details may be ironed out satisfactorily.

The union official said drivers are continuing to haul milk from farmers in the Bedford section but said some wholesale grocery companies here would be affected by the strike which would curtail their deliveries.

Company spokesmen point out that drivers have received nearly a 50 per cent increase in wages since the Little Steel formula went into effect. Increases include a 28 per cent increase by the companies in 1942, 12 per cent by the WLB in 1943 and five per cent by the companies in 1945.

Stutzman said the union hopes to arrange a meeting Sunday with 17 beer distributors of the Cumberland area in connection with a contract which expired June 1.

A representative of the Pittsburgh Joint-Teamsters council will be present at the conference as well as a spokesman for the Western Pennsylvania Beer Distributors Association, he added.

Frederick A. Puderbaugh, attorney for the distributors, said the companies have no voice in the agreement, and will not sign a contract which they do not negotiate.

Barton Legion License Opposed

Group Of Citizens File Remonstrance; Another Resident Submits Letter

A remonstrance filed by a large number of Barton citizens in Circuit Court yesterday morning against issuance of a Class C club liquor license to Barton Post No. 189, American Legion, was followed yesterday afternoon by a letter of protest from Mrs. J. J. McDonald, another Barton resident.

The application for the license was filed August 20 by Dayid Clark, acting for the Legion Post, organized last month. No date has been set by the Judges for a hearing on the protest.

The remonstrance filed yesterday morning was signed by 112 persons who identified themselves as "citizens of Barton and members and officials of the Barton Methodist Church." They said they oppose the license because the location is too close to the Methodist church, is near the Barton graded and high schools and because "we believe it to be against the ordinances of God and our earnest convictions for the decency and morale of our town and country."
